Mass. Pattern Cent of 1776, which is pictured in the Guide Book. We have never seen an electro or copy of this coin. The word "Copley" is struck in small letters on the copy and the piece was struck by the Robbins & Co. of Attleboro, Mass.

A thousand were struck in bronze and one hundred in silver.

A card with the history of this coin will be furnished to all purchasers.

Offering of a Very Rare
Volume Pertaining to Civil War Currency
Entitled
"Register of Issues of U. S. Notes and Bonds"

By Raphael P. Thian

This is indeed a museum piece. The book lists all the names of the signers of the Treasury Notes of the Confederate States, the denomination and serial numbers of the notes issued and the signers of those notes from 1861 to 1864. A most valuable source for checking out serial numbers and signatures authentically. The volume is in excellent physical condition and bound well in its original binding. This was the personal property of Mr. Thian. We will deliver this rare edition to you for only $450.00.

ANOTHER ITEM OF THE CIVIL WAR OF INTEREST TO COLLECTORS

MILITARY MAPS — Illustrating the operations of the Armies of the Potomac and James, May 4, 1864 to April 9, 1865. War Department, Office of the Chief of Engineers, 1869. This book is portfolio size and contains in addition to maps, the Army of the United States Corps Badges in color. A very interesting addition to any collection of Civil War items. In excellent condition. Priced at $250.00.

Since we are offering here items of great interest of which we have only one of each to offer it can only be fair to those who write in or phone first and indicate a sincere desire to purchase that sale will be made on a first come, first served basis.

AN UNUSUAL FIND

We recently purchased a small lot of HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION MEDALS (struck originally in 1909). These medals are in beautiful mint condition. They are one and one quarter inches in diameter, heavily plated on copper, with what appears to be silver, and each of them has a length of original red, white and blue ribbon attached to an edge loop. These medals were sponsored by the American Numismatic Society and the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Committee and apparently were the official souvenirs of this historic event. These are not restrikes or modern copies. Our special price for these fifty-two-year-old medals is only $3.00 postpaid or five for $13.75. These would make excellent gifts.

Useful for cleaning all kinds of coins, but particularly adapted to cleaning coins of copper or nickel.

EASY TO USE AND ECONOMICAL!
FAST ACTION — IT ACTUALLY
CLEANS IN SECONDS!

Does not add shine, but brings out natural color, including original brilliance if it is still there under tarnish or coating. Dull or dark uncirculated coins become brilliant uncirculated coins in seconds.

This result of years of experiment can be safely used on valuable coins to improve their appearance and increase their value.

On sale in many leading stores in 4-oz. bottles, with full directions, at $1.00.

If your dealer does not yet have it, send us $1.00 for 3-oz. bottle (enough to clean hundreds of coins) carefully packed and postpaid to any address in the United States or Canada.

SPECIAL OFFER TO DEALERS

Send $4.00 for six 4-oz. bottles of "CCC," postpaid.

BRILLIANTIZE is better than anything else on the market — Believe me, I've tried them all! My partner and I have two large stores." — New York

"I was very pleased with the first coin I cleaned with BRILLIANTIZE (all the rest, too, of course). It is the best coin cleaner I have ever used." — Georgia

Here It Is! The Official

K.S.N.A. MEDAL

Official Commemorative Medal of the KENTUCKY STATE NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

REVERSE

THE BACKGROUND: The K.S.N.A. Medal is being issued in connection with the first annual convention of the Kentucky State Numismatic Association at Louisville Nov. 3-4-5, 1961. It will commemorate the Civil War Centennial 1961, and Kentucky, the state having two presidents at one time: Lincoln of the North and Davis of the South.

THE DESIGN: The nationally famous artist, Allen Blankenbaker, created the design, the first views of which are shown above. The obverse pictures bust portraits of Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Davis, both native Kentuckians, with the legend, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall . . . Civil War Centennial." The reverse depicts a replica of the famous Kentucky Cent, a private issue which circulated in the United States, circa 1793. Each state is shown as a star in a triangle with Kentucky at the zenith.

THE SPECIFICATIONS: Struck in the increasingly popular "dollar" size, the medal will be offered in bronze, sterling silver and platinum (by special order only). The sterling silver medals will be limited to an issue of 1000, and will be serially numbered. One medal will be struck in solid gold to be presented to the governor of Kentucky for placement in the state museum at Frankfort. The issue will be a fine example of medallic art, well worthy of the most discriminating collection.

The K.S.N.A. - Lincoln-Jefferson Davis Medal Is Offered as Follows:

The Bronze Medal	each	2.00
The Sterling Silver Medal, 1000 Serially numbered pieces.....	each	10.00
The Platinum Medal, 10 Serially numbered pieces
		(on special order only) ...each 500.00

COIN GALLERIES IN 1962

The final issue of the Numismatic Review for last year was mailed in the middle of December. We feel that it was really a Banner Special for our friends. We offered an interesting variety of articles dealing with everything from the original Christmas Gifts to the mythological aspects of the Hessian "Blood Taler." Sandwiched between these extremes were discussions of the Crusaders and their coinage by Dr. Schwarzenberg. The coins listed emphasized the Medieval and English series, but offered something for a wide range of collecting interests.

The annual subscription to the Numismatic Review for 1962 is now set at $3.50. Those who subscribed last Autumn will, of course, receive their copies for a year at the old rate.

INTRODUCING THE NEW GEORGE WASHINGTON MEDAL

THE NEW WASHINGTON MEDAL, third in a series of extremely high quality medals offered by Presidential Art Medals, Inc., is now available. This medal, like its predecessors the Kennedy and Lincoln medals, is a part of a continuing program in which three or four medals will be struck each year until medals of all presidents have been issued. New medals will be struck thereafter as Presidents are inaugurated.

LIMITED PRODUCTION and the unmatched quality of these medals will assure their increasing value. Purchasers of the preceding offering of the serially numbered platinum and silver medals have priority on the succeeding offering. New orders for these medals must, therefore, be filled in the event of cancellations and in the order in which they are received only. Money from unfilled orders will be promptly returned.

PRODUCTION OF BRONZE MEDALS of Presidents Kennedy, Lincoln and Washington has not as yet been limited and these fine quality medals are available immediately, individually boxed and accompanied by an attractive and informative pamphlet on the President and the sculptor.

THE MEDALLIC ART COMPANY, only American Medallist devoted exclusively to sculptured bas-relief and MR. RALPH J. MENCONI, internationally recognized artist of full portrait high relief sculpture have collaborated to make this Presidential Art Series a collector's treasure.

NOW . . . The official Presidential Art Medals Album is ready for immediate delivery. This 11" x 12" heavily padded black leatherette album displays both sides of each medal in the entire series. Thick pages and acetate slides protect the high relief of the medals. Send $15.00 for your individually boxed album or write for descriptive literature.

ODD & CURIOUS MONEY

CANOE MONEY OR LATS

Varied in shape and composition, some of silver, some of copper, some of alloy: some appear like model canoes. The largest, which comes from the Mekong Valley is sometimes called an "ANT-COIN". The irregular markings along the edge being attributed to the struggles of ants, dropped alive on to the molten metal.

The Model Canoe type is found in the Ngum Valley and is made of copper. The small rough type is from the Province of Ubon in the northeast. The values of the Lats would differ from time to time and from place to place.

SHELL MONEY OR NGON HOI

Used in marriage payments in the Northern part of Siam. A marriage was made by depositing two of the silver coins and a divorce could be arranged by payment of a like sum. These pieces are covered on one side by a yellow-reddish brown color made from the burnt yolk of a chicken egg

PIG'S MOUTH MONEY

Irregular, inflated discs, often quite thin, from the borders of Siam and Burma. Hollow silver 2x2 often called

Marriage Tok

SADDLE MONEY — CHINA

A common form of silver ingot, which finds its way over the Chinese borders into Burma and Siam. Inscription reads "HONG KUNG KEE" (the name of the Banking House) and "KONG NGEE BEN NGOH," (genuine) first quality silver. Each of the two columns guarding the central panel also has the same lettering, which reads Kong Ngee Kong Koh Tong Pao, (Genuine and Negotiable for free circulation).

Weight 8 ozs. $27.50
Described by Schulman as Chair Money at $65.00 in 1946.

BULLET MONEY

Silver coins made from round bars of silver, then cut and the ends turned together, in denominations of 1/64 to 80 Ticals. (Gibbs) Popular with the people of the south who used the rivers for their transportation. The bullet money was put in bags and could therefore be put on the bottom of the boat easily. Shape was round so that the Siamese, while gambling, could roll the pieces to the party who had won. Each piece counterstamped with sign of Dynasty and ruler, as described in LeMay. (Quiggins)

"PACKSADDLE" COINS OF SIAM

14th-18th Century

These coins are called bracelets in their earliest form which may have been introduced by the Thai. They are common to Northern Siam. Later evolution of the bracelet became known as the K'a K'im — or Tamlung, which in their twisted shape resemble miniature packsaddles. The script found on most of these "packsaddles" is not, according to Quiggins, earlier than the beginning of the 14th century. The average weight is usually 4 bat (4-5 ozs.)

The origin of these two types of Siamese coins is thought to be the Chinese sycee silver which the northern people produced as bracelets and packsaddles. These "packsaddle" coins are not to be confused with the saddle shaped silver ingots of China. Each

GAMBLING "PEE" TOKENS

These pieces were used in Siam as gambling counters but also passed as small change for general purposes. Issued according to Mosher, by tradesmen and private concerns. They were thought to be of 18th and 19th Century in age and were of brass and also porcelain. These pieces had definite assigned values placed on the face, others merely had an emblem or device.

A number of these pieces bore the head of Queen Victoria and while not issued by the Government they were issued with the authority of the Government. There are many sizes, shapes and emblems appearing on these pieces. An assortment can be obtained at 50¢ each in porcelain or 12 pieces for

SHOE MONEY or CHINESE SYCEE TAEI

The Sycee Tael was supposed to represent one ounce but was usually a little more. This was the popular unit although many sizes are known. Shoe-money played an important part in the Chinese economic life for many centuries, and it was only in 1933 that it was officially abolished.

Only a few of the GOLD, SILVER, MINOR Coins and Currency we need in ALL CONDITIONS (yes, we buy damaged and mutilated too). We are interested in BUYING EVERYTHING IN A COLLECTION (not just the "cream"). Yes, WE BUY ROLLS AND QUANTITY LOTS TOO. No lot or quantity too large (ask the many dealers and investors who have sold us large roll and bag lots). It will PAY YOU to contact us before selling.

We can arrange to inspect (and buy) your collection anywhere in the U. S. If necessary, we can be virtually anywhere within 24 hours by air.

ADVERTISERS PLEASE NOTE ALL FOLLOWING CONDITIONS

All correspondence relating to advertising should be addressed to the Advertising Manager, S. W. Freeman, P. O. Box 591, Newport, Ark. Make all remittances payable to the American Numismatic Association.

No advertising accepted from minors.

Advertising Contracts: These are available, covering periods of three, six and twelve consecutive months for display space as listed in the above Table of Rates, and are necessary if the schedule of reduced rates is to apply. If the advertiser prefers not to accept the Contract, such reduced rates will be granted only upon payment in advance for the period desired.

References: All advertisers who submit copy for the first time are definitely requested to furnish therewith banking or other satisfactory references.

Available Space Units: Practical considerations restrict the allocation of space units to those listed in the above table. Any amount of space (subject to any current limitation) is available IF these units or a combination of them are used. Unless contrary instructions are given, copy will be cut if found too full for the space designated; if no designation is made, it shall be understood the amount of space is left to the discretion of the Advertising Manager.

Unless under contract, smaller units than one-half page accepted subject to available space in desired issue.

Deadline: Copy must be received by the Advertising Manager by the 5th of the month to insure insertion in the following month's issue.

Illustrations: All cuts to be provided by the advertisers, care being used to see that they do not exceed in measurement the limits of the space unit desired. The Advertising Manager, when absolutely necessary, will have engravings made from furnished photographs, at national rates, to be paid for by advertiser.

We cannot accept mats or stereos.

Miscellaneous: Please furnish copy separately from your letter of transmittal. Advertising copy included in the body of a letter usually has to be retyped for the printer; this should not be required. Mail Bid Sales listing not acceptable. It is also the policy of the magazine to limit its advertisements to those of numismatic character.

Preparation of Copy: Advertising copy should be prepared with minute care. Carelessness invites error—something which both advertiser and publisher are anxious to avoid. Use only one side of the sheet. Send originals, not carbon copies. Use only paper of good quality, and not of extremely light weight. All copy must be typed, no handwritten accepted.

In the absence of an Advertising Contract, when payment in advance for any number of consecutive months has been made, if change of copy has not been received by the 7th of the month for the next issue, the latest preceding advertisement will be run.

Advertisers may use a trade name, but, except in the case of an incorporated concern, the name of the proprietor or some other responsible person connected with the firm must also appear in the advertisement.

The right to edit copy, to require payment in advance, and to decline any advertisement is specifically reserved.

Canadian Royal Commission on Monetary Structure — The Canadian Government has appointed a Royal Commission of seven members headed by Dr. Dana Porter, Chief Justice of Ontario, to carry out a thorough review of Canada's monetary and financial structure, according to the London Times. The Commission is expected to produce a report that will form the basis for legislation to improve the working of Canada's financial system when the revision of the Bank Act comes up in three years' time. The Times remarks that it is thought that the Commission will establish clearly the Government's ultimate responsibility for monetary policy implemented by the Bank of Canada. Another question before the Commission will be whether to extend the control of the Bank of Canada beyond the chartered banks.

George Kiefer spoke on U.S. paper money to the seventeen in attendance at the November 7 meeting of Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society. Exhibits included the following: Harry Bartley — series of 1899 silver certificate; Ray Byrne — counterstamped gold coin of the West Indies, and a fourteen coin proof set of 1873; Gordon Dodrill — twenty Greek coins of 500 to 55 B.C., and thirty early U.S. type coins; Duane Feisel — U.S. 1890 10¢ in brass, silver plated (not listed in the pattern books); Robert Porter, Jr. — set of 1896 "historical" notes, all signatures; Dr. J. Sloss — regular issue half eagles of 1804 and 1808 and silver patterns of same, large eagle, rev. half eagle of 1795, eagles of 1795, 1799 and 1803, and pattern Gobrecht gold dollar of 1836 in gold; Phil Williams — Saint Gaudens medal in silver. — DR. ROBERT J. HUDSON, Sec.-Treas.

Club Publications

The Editor and his assistant receive quite a few news publications issued by clubs primarily for the benefit of their own members. They vary from a single mimeographed sheet to offset printed pamphlets containing illustrations and numismatic articles. Both individually and collectively they represent the expenditure of a lot of effort, if not much money, and we believe them to be of considerable value in furthering the members' interest in their clubs.

We read and appreciate them — occasionally we pick up a news item of general interest to readers of THE NUMISMATIST. However, since they usually stress local news, and serve as notices for club meetings in the immediate future, they cannot serve as items for the "Club News" section. Clubs having problems or questions about getting their meetings reported in this section should request a form letter which gives information and suggestions on this subject. Just a memo or post card to the Editor will get you a copy of the letter by return mail.

submitted than could be answered in one session. An excellent movie by the National Film Society of Canada on "The City of Gold" (the Yukon) was shown. Next year we will hold quarterly auctions rather than the small ones previously held. Lists of the lots to be auctioned will be published in advance. — BETTYE J. KLAUSS, Sec.

The Union City (Indiana) Coin Club will hold an all-day coin show in the Eagles Club Rooms, 224 West Oak St., on January 14. For a bourse table at $5, and for other information, contact Frank W. Williams, chairman, at 1108 W. Pearl St., Union City, Ind. Leon Hendrickson is the auctioneer. — FRANK W. WILLIAMS

With an attendance of about one hundred, the Lawndale (Calif.) Coin Club held its 30th meeting on November 19 and elected the following 1962 officers: president, Jim Caesar; vice president, Bob Davis; treasurer, Bill Voelzke; recording secretary, Virginia Dennis; and corresponding secretary, Jack Protay. The members voted to donate $25 to the Garden Valley Home for Retarded Children as the Club's annual contribution to a local charity. — JACK PROTAY, Corr. Secretary

The Uncas Numismatic Association of Norwich, Conn., held its second annual coin show at the Pawcatuck Masonic Temple on November 12. About three hundred visitors enjoyed the exhibits of commemorative coins, medals, obsolete bank notes and various other coins. Ronald Earle of the Silver City Coin Company held a successful auction, and dealers from four nearby states had bourse tables. Harry Schatz was chairman of the show, being assisted by Joseph D. and Mrs. Bailey, Joseph Antoch, Frank Pignataro, Thomas Serio and John Sullivan. — MARION B. BAILEY, Sec.

Sixty members and seven guests attended the November 28 meeting of Port City Coin Club at the Municipal Light and Water Auditorium in Muscatine, Iowa. Six collectors became new members of the Club. — MRS. GUS HEINRICH, Corr. Sec.

Michael Taff, member of Los Angeles Coin Club, reported finding an abt. unc. 1909-S VDB cent in a roll, proving that "key" coins are still in circulation. Over two hundred persons attended the November 10 meeting of the Club and enjoyed coin displays by Thelma Case, Joy Parrish, Harold Donald, Bob Axelrod, W. K. Erdman, William Koonce and Harley Kaufman, the latter winning the prize for best display of the meeting. Karl Brainard was speaker of the evening, using slides in his informative talk and pointing out what to look for when grading coins, such as first points of wear on various coins, and explaining the small and large date cents, three-legged Buffalo nickel, over-date coins, and many others. One of the highlights of Karl's talk related to the girl on the standing Liberty quarter and why changes were made in the design. The girl was Dora Doscher, Karl told us, who was a polio victim when a child. Doctors predicted that she would never walk again, but she recovered to become a beautiful model and to serve as a nurse during World War I. The following members of this Club won awards as follows at the California State Numismatic Association convention in Santa Monica: Robert Axelrod, first in medals; W. E. Hogue, third in paper money; Horace Bloxam, third in special collections; and Alva Christensen, second in dealers' group. The Bay Cities Coin Club presented a special award to Thelma Case for her display of "Odd and Curious Monies." At this meeting, Russell G. Snyder was the happy recipient of a life membership in our Club. — CAROLYN OLSON, Corr. Sec.

The New Jersey Numismatic Society held its 334th meeting in the Military Park Hotel in Newark on November 9, with thirty-one attending. Using the title "Numismatics Behind the Iron Curtain," Hans Schulman gave an interesting account of a recent European trip during which he visited Hungary. Before leaving the train, there was a closely watched exchange of currency. He found intrigue to be common, and that strangers are watched closely. The State museum exhibits a nice coin collection and State stores have coins for sale to collectors, with some gold coins being obtainable for export under license. Living expenses are cheap according to our standards of prices, but those in power never cease to try to convert outsiders to the way of life in "A Peoples Democracy." Hans felt sure that only the finer life there is seen by visitors from the West. We were pleased to hear that the influx of counterfeit U. S. coins from foreign countries is being investigated. — JAMES A. BROWN, Sec.-Treas.

The 45th meeting of the Glendale (Calif.) Coin Club was held November 20 with fifty-four members and guests in attendance. An added attraction to the club room were many outstanding water color paintings depicting various scenes of the Antarctica by the noted water color artist Arthur Beaumont. Bill Koonce displayed a fine collection of Greek paper money after the models of the classic period, and ancient Greek coins of Corinth and Alexander the Great of the Seleucid secession. Earl Glen Whitehead made an announcement of the NASC convention to be held in February, and George Bennett gave an interesting talk on medals. — ESTELLE K. POWERS, Rec. Sec.

Members and guests attending the November meeting of Buffalo Numismatic Association had the pleasure of hearing Robert H. Lloyd and Jesse Taylor elucidate on paper money to the accompaniment of the A.N.A. slide set on $5 notes. They explained such things as the numerals in the corners of early National Bank notes, where each numeral is slightly different to help discourage counterfeiters. After the lecture, Jesse Taylor exhibited several types of notes including the "lazy two" and the educational series of 1896. Members were asked for an opinion regarding the practicality of the existing Boy Scout numismatic merit badge. The members feel that an excess of rare coins is required to obtain the merit badge and want the requirements modified to include more common coins. A resolution to this effect was drafted, notifying the Boy Scout Council of our opinion. Persons in the area interested in numismatics are cordially invited to attend our meetings in the Museum of Science the first and third Mondays each month. — READ WOODWORTH, Sec.

host club and have the entire roof garden of the Bel-View Stratford Hotel. Hans M. F. Schulman was guest speaker and held our complete attention with a talk on "Coins Behind the Iron Curtain." He told us of things which happened on his recent trip to Budapest, Hungary, including a "mickey flinn." We believe he could write a best seller on this subject. — THOMAS E. WERNER, Sec.

The eighty-seventh meeting of Monterey Peninsula Coin Club on October 16 was attended by thirty-seven, including six first time visitors. Two junior members had nice displays of shield nickels and various other coins. Col. Higgins reported on the meeting at Hayward of Northern California Numismatic Association, which is planning its first convention, to be held at the Jack Tar Hotel in San Francisco in September, 1962. Linden Leavitt attended the Lake Tahoe Coin Festival which he reported as showing wonderful displays. He also reported on the Coin Carnival in Hayward which was well attended and lively. One club having been eliminated, we have been asked to join the Carnival and agreed to do so. Six of our members gave three to five minute talks on varied subjects, which were so enjoyable that more will be given at future meetings.

There was a near record turnout of fifty-seven at the November 20 meeting in the Library Club Room. According to Col. Higgins, ninety per cent of the bourse space at the N.C.N.A. convention next September is sold out, with many of the big dealers having bought tables. Our Club will hold a special dinner in March to celebrate our seventh anniversary. The Club's hard working officers held an auction of sixty-five lots, of which twenty-five were donated, that netted more than enough for payment of the $50 fee for joining the Coin Carnival in Hayward next year. — WARREN S. CLAUNCH, Sec.

With an attendance of nearly 150, the 242nd meeting of Missouri Numismatic Society was held November 13 at the Claridge Hotel in St. Louis. Vice President Al Wick narrated slides of worldwide coins, including American Colonial, ancient, Oriental, odd and curious, and some paper money. Among the American coins was one of every denomination minted. His remarks were geared to the amateur and junior collector, suggesting that they might start their collections with reasonably priced coins not too large in size, and with type coins supplemented by occasional "key" coins — all with the expectation of widening their fields as they grow in knowledge and experience. He reminded us that numismatics can be both educational and pleasurable, and a good investment of money, time and effort. Since this Society includes a happy combination of amateurs, juniors, and members authoritative in the numismatic field, Al's remarks were well received. Eleven collectors, including two juniors, became new members of the Society. — BERNICE STEVENSON, Sec.

Tickets for the 25th Silver Anniversary banquet and installation of officers went on sale at the November meeting of San Diego Numismatic Society, which will be held at the U.S. Grant Hotel on January 27. Tickets are $3.50 each and may be secured from Secretary Harvey Rose, 4233 Sixty-Ninth St., La Mesa, Calif. Banquet Chairman Dick Thorpe promises an outstanding evening for all who attend. Paul Hamm and Harvey Rose gave a comprehensive report of the California State Numismatic Association convention held recently in Santa Monica. Over 136 members and guests enjoyed exhibits by A. F. Andersen, Paul Hamm, Ken Hedges, Francis S. Jones, Thomas McDaniel, Leonel Panosh, Harvey Rose and Thomas Ward. Harvey Rose won first place with Mexican coins and currency. Paul Hamm second with "So-Called Dollars," and Ken Hedges got honorable mention for his nice display of medals. Twelve applications for membership were received. — FRANCIS S. JONES, Publ. Chm.

Paul H. Otis was reelected president of the Club of Illinois Numismatists at the November 24 meeting at the Homewood Town Hall. Other officers for 1962 are: Paul Soderman, vice president; Helen Schwenger, secretary; George Uhl, treasurer; Lois Otis, sergeant-at-arms, and William Brown, Robert Feiber and Donald Kolbe, governors. Hugh M. Knight will continue to act as advisor to the Club. Exhibitors included Bill Brown, Robert Feiber, Hugh Knight, Paul and Lois Otis, and Ricky Anderson. Ricky's exhibit of odd shaped coins of the world worked in very well with the showing of A.N.A. slides on Regular Issue Odd Shaped Coins of the Twentieth Century (No. 21). We were reminded that only five towns were represented at our first meeting, less than two years ago, whereas now meeting bulletins go to members at twenty-two post offices. — LOIS OTIS, Publ. Chm.

Thirty-six members and twenty-three guests were present at the November 7 meeting of Dearborn (Mich.) Coin Club to see Ted Kilish receive an 1898 half eagle as the prize for the best club emblem. The members chose Ted's design as being the best submitted, it being the tower of Independence Hall at Greenfield Village centered in a circle with "Dearborn Coin Club, Organized 1960" around the outer edge of the circle. Seven new members were admitted to the Club, bringing our membership to eighty-one. — Scripta

Sterling Harrison suffered a fractured rib on the way to the October 29 meeting of Evansville Coin Club, and was unable to present his talk on "Fractional Currency." Dr. Charles Leich, our president, narrated the A.N.A. slide set in Sterling's absence. Bill Pukall displayed and explained his second prize exhibit at the recent Indiana State convention here. It is a plaster of paris relief map of Hawaii with his collection of Hawaiian coins inserted. Announcement was made of an innovation at the next meeting in the form of a three-man panel of experts who will answer questions presented by members on any phase of numismatics. Prizes will be awarded to the members whose questions are judged the most informative.

About seventy-five members and guests attended the November 26 meeting in the River Room of the Museum of Arts and Science. The panel of experts was enlarged to five, being Arthur Romerhaus as chairman and Darwin France, Ralph Lee, Dr. David Orrahood and Bill Pukall. This feature proved to be a tremendous success, with more questions Smedley. Grebinger read a short paper on misstruck coins, the subject of his exhibit, in which he described the process of minting coins and how errors occur. For his outstanding contributions to the success of this Club over several years' time, Grebinger was given our Medal of Merit for 1961. — S. A. VAN PETTEN, Sec.

The second Atomic Club Pow Wow conducted by the Columbia Basin Coin Club in Richland, Wash., was attended by over two thousand persons. Twenty-four dealers from Washington, Oregon and Canada made up the bourse, and Robert Burggraaf conducted the auction. Bidding was spirited and prices high, with the feature lot, a br. unc. 1916-D Mercury dime, going for $378. There were thirty-one exhibits in five classes, with blue ribbons going to the following: U. S. coins — Mrs. Dorothy Campbell, Harry Lumbert, S/MSgt. A. W. Landrum, and K. F. Priest; foreign coins — John and Lena Buckham, Mrs. Irene Alexander, and R. L. Jones; medals — P. P. Beardsley; paper money — K. F. The Tampa Coin Club will be host to the Florida Mid-Winter Coin Show at the completely remodeled Hillsboro Hotel, January 18-21. All tables have been reserved in the 45-table bourse, and a list of the exhibitors reads like the Who's Who of numismatists. This is being planned as a non-profit show and we are going all out to provide educational exhibits. On Saturday and Sunday there will be a special competitive exhibit for junior collectors only, with suitable awards. Entertainment, style shows and sightseeing trips have been arranged for the ladies. We have publicized this event to coin clubs, banks, civic and church groups, and others, and a big attendance is expected. Reservations should be made direct to the Hotel, and mention of the coin show will give visitors special rates. The Club's address is P. O. Box 3296, Tampa, Fla. — HARRY O. ADAMS, Show Chm.

Forty-four members and guests of Trenton Numismatic Club attended the November 6 meeting in the Colonial Firehouse at 2421 Liberty St., Trenton,

The officers elected for the coming year are: Forrest Michael, president; Don Sharpe, vice president; Bob Koontz, secretary-treasurer, and J. McNeely Miller, auctioneer. It was decided that the Club will place two "red" and two "blue" books in the local library for public use. This will be the regular procedure for opening all of our future meetings. Alva Christensen was our guest speaker and was presented with a "Certificate of Appreciation" for her very interesting talk on Odd and Curious Money. Gropp, Ann Hall, Eileen Lawson and Dr. C. Ryan. Members are still bringing books, magazines and other numismatic literature to be donated to the Torrance Library in the Club's name. — MRS. VIRGINIA H. DENNIS, Corr. Sec.

Members at the 252nd meeting of Indianapolis Coin Club learned that arrangements have been made to hold the monthly meetings in the Mural Room of the Indiana State Teachers Association Building, beginning in January. Ronald Plew, chairman of our exhibit at the Indianapolis Hobby Show, noted that the twenty-five cases of numismatic material drew enthusiastic attention from the public. With an attendance of 100,000, we feel that more people see our exhibit than any other temporary exhibit of coins in the country. Leo Terry displayed silver and bronze medals issued for the first Kentucky State convention, and discussed the various point systems used in judging exhibits. More than usual interest was shown in the evening's displays by Max Keller, Don Elliott, William Hurt and Ralph Brown. Ray Fiscus spoke about the annual officer installation banquet in December, at which honored guests are the members' wives who must "bear with" their coin collecting husbands all year. — RALPH A. BROWN, Corr. Sec.

Twenty-nine members and thirteen guests of Pacific Coast Numismatic Society enjoyed seventeen exhibits of "other hobbies" at the September meeting. Souvenir spoons predominated, but there were many others including bells, fans, transportation tokens, minerals, telephoniana, old photographs, etc. Dr. Elizabeth Rees of Oakland gave an interesting talk about her spoons and showed two books which gave the story of many souvenir spoons.

The Twenty-fifth Anniversary dinner of the Fairfield County Numismatic Association was held at the Hitching Post Restaurant in Bridgeport, Conn., on November 6. Guests were present from New York and various Connecticut cities and towns. Among the letters of congratulations read was one from C. C. Shroyer, president of A.N.A., and one from J. Oscar then introduced the past presidents, of whom seven were in attendance. The Board of Governors bestowed a life membership on Leonard Kusterer, who has not missed any of the 250 meetings held during the past twenty-five years. A limited number of the anniversary medals, of which 100 were struck in brass, have been set aside for non-members. These may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope plus one dollar for each medal wanted to Oscar G. Schilke, Box 246, Niantic, Conn. — SAMUEL C. WHEELER, Sec.

William Higgle exhibited Spanish American coins and spoke about them at the November 2 meeting of Kenosha Coin Club at Sheridan Lanes. His exhibit included cob pieces of eight obtained recently off Cape Canaveral and believed to be from the plate fleet which was wrecked by a hurricane in 1716. He described the first coins struck in the new world as being one, two and four reales with the Mexico City mintmark. The following were elected for the coming year: President, Walter Battersby; Vice President, Russell Arneson; Secretary, John Warren; Treasurer, Joseph Book; Sergeant at Arms, William Spencer; Librarian, Paul Magnussen. — N. EMORY MISCHLER, Publ. Chm.

A record crowd of fifty-seven attended the November 1 meeting of Old Capitol (Iowa City) Coin Club which was held in the Iowa Memorial Union. Bigelow, Hill and Frost; junior - Peter Libby. It was a fine show, but we are still learning and look forward to an even bigger and better Coinval in 1962. - ROY HILL, Publ.

The Club of Illinois Numismatists (C.O.I.N.) held open house at its October 27 meeting in Homewood. Glen Flory, Mrs. R. M. Gaskill and Hugh M. Knight found some difficulty in judging the twenty exhibits, but gave awards in the adult class to Paul Soderman, Helen Schwenger and Larry Whitlow. Ricky Anderson and Alison Schwenger won in the junior class. We were well pleased with the number of visitors that turned out to this first public affair, and by the interest created, the compliments and comments received. Many of the visitors were new collectors unknown to us. - LOIS OTIS, Publ. Chm.

Sixty-four members of the Des Moines Coin Club celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary October 6. Special guest was Ray Wiley, the Club's first president, who related incidents in the organization a quarter of a century ago. At the September 23 meeting of Toronto Coin Club, twenty-one members and eleven guests enjoyed a talk by honorary member John J. Pittman of Rochester, N. Y. John drew upon his knowledge to describe the more notable numismatic forgeries, and recommended that every collector get to know reputable dealers and arm himself with knowledge from numismatic manuals and periodicals. Special caution should be observed when acquiring the rarer and higher priced items, which are more apt to be counterfeited and altered. Pittman extended a cordial invitation to attend the fiftieth annual celebration of the Rochester Coin Club on January 6, 1962. President Louise Graham urged us to plan attendance at the joint convention of A.N.A. and C.N.A. in Detroit next August 15-18. We were happy to learn from the daily press of the dismissal of a charge against our respected member, Albert Rosen, of possessing counterfeit coins. Rosen has been buying openly advertised forgeries for years from dealers in Canada and abroad, and this decision of the court is of interest to many of us.

Miss Elizabeth Wyn Wood, RCA, whose monuments and murals are known throughout Canada, gave an address to forty-one members and guests at the October 28 meeting in the Royal York Hotel. In her talk "A Sculptor Looks at Coins," at once both witty and enlightening, Miss Wood described sculptors as designers of monuments, panels, portraits in the round, coins and medals. In designing coins, she expressed a special glee in making money out of helping to make money. She explained that designs for the mint must conform exactly to rigid specifications of a technical nature, yet the designer must not allow these restrictions to paralyze the imagination. Her display of large plaster models of various Canadian coins was most impressive, including one of King Edward the Eighth which, of course, was never used. Many of the models were from the hands of Miss Wood's late husband, the eminent Emmanuel Hahn, RCA, who addressed this Club in 1955 on a similar subject. Miss Wood is a highly respected Club member. - H. A. CRAIG, Editor

With over two thousand registered and many other unrecorded visitors, the Midwest Coin Show held by Heart of America Numismatic Association in Kansas City, November 17-19, may have been the greatest of the 1961 coin shows in the midwest. Seventeen applications for bourse tables were turned down due to space limited to ninety dealers, who reported a brisk business. The auction was well attended and prices good, with early type coins, commemoratives and proof sets seeming to be in greatest demand. The exhibit room was open to all, but a fifty-cent registration was required for entry to the bourse. This proved satisfactory, but next year's affair will be a convention with registration required of all. Fifty-seven exhibitors filled nearly a hundred cases with fine material. Art Lovi of Pensacola showed his quarter million dollar exhibit and was presented with a gold medal engraved to show appreciation for his unique numismatic exhibit. Award winners in the classified exhibits were as follows: U.S. gold — Dr. Ketterman, Ray Janda, Ralph Hardman; foreign gold — Mrs. Ray Janda, Dr. Ketterman; U.S. coins — C. J. Willey, A. G. Taubert; foreign coins — Stan Rupert, Andy Reiz, Harold Eissinger; U.S. paper money — Leo Sams; foreign paper money — Harold Eissinger; medals — Felix Canatella; ancient coins — Harold Eissinger, Ray Janda, Richard Holmes; odd and curious — Mrs. Gorski, Ray Janda, Richard Holmes; best junior exhibit — Jimmy Willey (trophy by North Kansas Coin Club); best gold display — Ray and Mrs. Janda (trophy by Kansas City Numismatic Society); best-in-show — C. J. Willey (trophy by Midwest Coin Club, Grandview). Trophies for the best essays on numismatics were awarded to Ralph Fritts, first; Harry Bosley, second; and Miss Kathleen Flynn, third. An innovation was presentation of awards at a breakfast rather than at a banquet. Co-Chairman Ralph Bondon carried the show on in fine manner with the help of committee heads in the absence of Ray Lefman who showed up in a wheelchair, having had a kidney operation only eight days previously. We look forward to an even bigger convention in November, 1962.

A bright sunny Sunday helped the East Bay Coin Club stage its biggest Coinval on October 29 at Lakeside Park Garden Center in Oakland. The attendance of over five hundred at this ninth annual show was about double that of any in the past. R. J. Frost, General Chairman, had able help from Don D. Crosman; George R. Squires who took care of the auction; Elsie J. East at the registration desk; Charles R. Bigelow who took care of refreshments with the help of Grace Moorman and Alice Hensley; Sidney T. Gilligan, who lined up the thirty-two very busy bourse dealers. Publicity was secured by F. J. Montague and Roy Hill. Ten exhibitors produced fourteen fine exhibits in thirty-nine cases, arranged by Chairman Robert East. A committee of A. W. Ritchie, L. G. Lodge and Michael Carr decided upon the following awards: U.S. coins — Caroline Campenella, also best-in-show with U. S. Gold, Charles Dias, Rudy Gjurovich, and Frost, in that order; foreign coins — John D. Sears, Edward S. Lane, Sidney J. Haas, Hill and Gjurovich; general — Gjurovich, Herbert M. Bergen, A.N.A., Second Vice President, spoke to the Santa Barbara Coin Club October 16 on "How California Gold Affected the Civil War." He stated that the supply of gold from mines in the southern states had dwindled by the time of the war's outbreak, and that the North had the output of the newly discovered California mines. Interest payments on the Federal debt in 1862 alone was $22,000,000, payable in gold. This caused the premium on gold to rise five per cent in January of that year, and an additional five per cent in July. Thereafter the interest was paid in paper currency, but California gold eventually paid the Federal cost of the War, estimated at $2,757,000,000 by April, 1865. The cost to the Confederacy was some $1,500,000,000, but it had very little gold and Federal blockades prevented the export of its cotton. Bergen displayed a fractional currency shield on silver paper, and explained that they were issued to banks as a means of detecting the counterfeit notes which were being circulated. He said that the silver paper shields are much rarer than those on pink paper, and that the fractional notes are still legal tender. Fred Claveria exhibited some of his Mexican coins, and Harry Kaplun displayed fractional currency. —GWEN J. SENTIS, Sec.

The Western Reserve Numismatic Club held its 489th meeting on November 8. This being our fortieth anniversary, a banquet was held to celebrate the occasion and to honor those members who have been in the Club twenty-five or more years. Among those attending were Austin Lloyd (38 years), Otto Budde (36 years), John Gregor (29 years), and the following with 25 years: Fred Hahlen, Dr. Howard Law, Fred Roth and Thornton Taylor. Harley Freeman, with 39 years, was unable to attend but sent a letter in which he related incidents in the Club's early days. After a nice dinner, president Lemont Kier showed colored sound movies which he took on a recent trip to Tahiti and the islands of Bora Bora and Moorea. —FRED HAHLEN, Sec.

The eighteenth meeting of the Union County Coin Club was held October 24 at the Polish National Hall in Linden, N. J. Eighty members and twenty guests heard George Wait of Glen Ridge speak on "History, As Seen by the Paper Money Collector." Also present were numismatists Willard Blaisdell, half cent and cent collector, and Herbert Oeschner, owner of the New Hampshire cent pictured in the Red Book. Another highlight of the meeting was the presentation of the A.N.A. twenty-five year membership medal to Vice President Sam Rosenberg. Our meetings are held the fourth Tuesday monthly and those in the Linden area are invited to attend. —GEORGE MCGRATH, Publ. Chm.

Conservative estimates place attendance at over two thousand at the Dearborn Coin Club's first coinarama on October 28-29. Among the 425 who registered were out of state guests from W. Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. The twenty-one dealers reported a big volume of business, with very little dickering over prices. About 160 bidders attended the two session auction which grossed over $2,000, with many lots going at or above catalog. Feature exhibits were the collections of Irving Moskovitz and George Hatie who received non competitive trophies in recognition of their contributions to the outstanding exhibit. William Hawks' foreign coins won first place in the competition, while Frank Webb, Jr. took second with a type set of U.S. coins and Richard Tomczak was third with a display of Lincoln cents. Judges were Paul Landry of the Detroit Coin Club and Floyd Webb of the Lincoln Coin Club. Awards were presented at the Club's November 7 meeting. The hard working committees were rewarded with comments from visitors that indicated success of the show beyond all expectations. —RICHARD TOMCZAK, Sec.

AWARDS FROM COINS

Surveying numismatics, several instances can be found where coins have been employed to serve as medals. This is usually due to economic necessity or to some adverse condition under which the medal was produced. Usually an existing coin is altered by grinding down one of the more inappropriate sides, and adding a new design or inscription by use of a crude die or hand engraving. Sometimes the coin is completely changed by altering both faces, and adding a loop or hole to serve as a suspension device.

However, here is a rather unusual employment of a gold coin to produce an award, neither defacing nor mutilating the original specimen. The manner is simple, yet effective. Only the one side of the coin can be seen, yet it is of a design which would be most significant to those to whom it would be awarded. The coin is undoubtedly the Austrian ducat trade coin (Yeoman 53) of gold, and the photos (see facing page) show all the dates to be 1915.

Each gold coin is mounted in one side of a wooden locket or medalion. A wooden collar, which is also threaded, holds the coin in place. The collar bears the inscription BEATUS CUI ENODATUR MALLEOLUS around from upper right to upper left. For each of the three pieces illustrated, a wooden cover can be screwed on the threaded collar to cover the coin and inscription. Upon each cover is an engraving of St. Stephen's Cathedral in Vienna.

The pieces shown are supposed to be the three classes of an award of the Austrian resistance or underground movement during World War II. Here is the attribution of the three pieces:

No. 1. The "Steffelknopf" of the Gold Eagle of St. Stephen, lowest grade.

No. 2. Gold Eagle of St. Stephen on red-white-red ribbon, middle grade.

No. 3. Gold Eagle of St. Stephen on the ribbon of the Austrian bravery medal, highest grade.

I would conjecture that the use of a gold coin would indicate that this was quite a select award, as during wartime gold coins are at an unusual premium for the very necessities of life. As these gold trade ducats were struck long after the date of 1915, they probably would have been the most available gold coins, if any were to be had at all.

The use of the coat of arms of the old regime plus that of the Cathedral of St. Stephen, would be most effective as symbols of the traditions that had been lost during the war. The colors of red and white are traditional Austrian colors of both the Empire and the Republic that followed. The colors in the pattern used on the middle class, are represented as they were used on the military bravery order of Maria Theresia during the Empire. The highest class uses the peculiar red and white ribbon, with the cross bars of red and white (ladder pattern), as was used on the military bravery medal during the Empire.

The author would appreciate any other information that can be given concerning these pieces, as most of this information was obtained from an uncorroborated source. — GARY C. KRUG

Coins of Peter III (1276-1285)

Peter III (the Grand), 1276-1285, began his reign by securing from his brother an acknowledgement that Majorca and Rousillon were dependencies of Aragon. Shortly after ascending the throne of Aragon Peter married Constanza, a daughter of Manfred of Sicily. Manfred was assassinated shortly afterward so Peter put forth the claim of his wife, landed in Sicily with an army and soon controlled the entire island. Peter was excommunicated by the Pope for his efforts and his throne declared vacant. The Pope offered the throne of Aragon to Charles of Anjou who accepted and landed in Spain with an army estimated at a hundred thousand. However, the army was soon decimated by an epidemic in which Charles also lost his life. Peter issued no coins for Aragon but did strike for Barcelona. He also struck both gold and silver for Sicily in his name and that of his wife Constanza. Peter died in Villafranca del Panades on November 10, 1285 and was succeeded by his son, Alfonso.

Coins of James I (1213-1276)

James I (the Conqueror), 1213-1276, who was a prisoner of Simon de Montfort when his father was killed, was the greatest Aragonese monarch. He was an only child, so the Pope intervened and obtained his release from de Montfort. The usual internal unrest which always beset the early years of a youthful monarch took place. James was in full command of the situation by 1228 and was able to embark on a war of conquest. In 1229 he took Majorca, in 1232 Minorca fell and in 1235 Ibiza was subjected thus completing the conquest of the Balearic Islands. Valencia, which at one time had been a possession of Castile but had been retaken by the Moslems, fell to James in 1238. James had made a treaty with Castile limiting the extent of his conquests but not being content with idleness he arranged to conquer Murcia for the King of Castile and did in 1265 and 1266. The lands were then surrendered to Castilian nobles and James withdrew to Aragon. Next he began a crusade to Jerusalem but his fleet was wrecked by storms and the venture was abandoned. On his death he divided his dominions giving Aragon, Catalonia and Valencia to his son Peter and Majorca and Rousillion to another son, James. James I died on July 27, 1276 after a reign of 63 years. Alfonso II, 1162-1196, was born April 4, 1152 and inherited Barcelona in 1162 and two years later his mother abdicated the throne of Aragon in his favor. On assuming the throne of Aragon, Ramon changed his name to the more Aragonese-sounding one of Alfonso. An acquisition of Alfonso was that of Provence in southern France in 1166 which came to him as the result of the death, without heirs, of his cousin on the paternal side of the family. Later, in 1187, Rousillion was also added to his domain by inheritance. Alfonso was a coin collector and had a cabinet made of mahogany and ivory which he carried with him in all of his travels, even in battle. He died in Perpignan April 25, 1196 and was succeeded by his eldest son, Peter.

Coins of Peter II (1196-1213)

Peter II (the Catholic), 1196-1213, became King at a time when the situation in his French domains was so critical that he went to Rome, surrendered his lands in vassalage to the Pope and received them back in fief. This silenced the French claims for the moment but the Pope himself soon became embroiled with the Albigenses and proclaimed a crusade against the

Coins of Peter I (1094-1104)

Coins of Alfonso I of Aragon (1104-1134)

Alfonso I (the Battler), 1104-1134, married Urraca, Queen of Castile, in 1109 but as previously detailed the marriage resulted unfavorably and the union was dissolved in 1111. Wars with Castile continued until the death of Urraca in 1126, when Alfonso abandoned his claims to the Castilian throne. Religious wars occupied Alfonso's time until his death in 1134. He had attempted three years before his death to leave the kingdom to two military orders. Such an arrangement was not acceptable to his subjects so the nobles of Navarre elected a King of their own and the throne of Aragon passed to the King's brother, Ramiro.

Ramiro II (1134-1137)

Ramiro II (the Monk), 1134-1137, chosen by the Aragonese to rule Aragon, was actually a monk but was released from his vows by the Pope to marry Inez, daughter of the Count of Poitiers. A daughter, Petronila, was born of this union. When Petronila was two years old Ramiro betrothed her to Ramon IV Berenguer, Count of Barcelona, and then abdicated in her favor. He retired again to a monastery where he died in 1154. No coins known.

Petronila (1137-1162)

Petronila, 1137-1162, being but an infant, the governing of the country devolved on her future husband who ruled in her name using the title of Count of Barcelona. They were married in 1151 and by this union Aragon and Barcelona were forever united. Six children were born to Petronila and Ramon. The eldest son, also named Ramon, succeeded to the throne of Barcelona on the death of Ramon IV Berenguer on August 6, 1162. Petronila abdicated and retired to her estates where she died in 1172. No coins are known.

HISTORICAL NOTES AND COIN LISTS

Ramiro I (1035-1063)

As previously noted, the Kingdom of Aragon dates from the will of Sancho III of Navarre who divided his kingdom into three parts of which the portion to be known as Aragon was left to his illegitimate son Ramiro:

Ramiro I, 1035-1063, Count of Aragon, inherited only a small part of his father's domain but immediately set about increasing it. He first tried to take advantage of the absence of his brother Garcia, who had gone to Rome for an audience with the Pope. Garcia returned hurriedly, and Ramiro not only failed in the attempt to annex Navarre but was compelled to take refuge in his own mountains. Ramiro died on May 6, 1063 as the result of a wound received in a battle with the Moslems at Zaragoza. He was succeeded by his son Sancho. No coins were struck by Ramiro I.

Coins of Sancho Ramirez (1063-1094)

Sancho Ramirez, 1063-1094, was eighteen when his father died. His reign was devoid of the usual civil strife common to the period. The most notable happening being the peaceful acquisition of Navarre in 1076. Sancho IV Garces, King of Navarre, was assassinated by his brother Ramon who pushed him over a precipice. The people of Navarre refused to be governed by a fratricide and called an election the outcome of which was the offering of the throne of Navarre to Sancho Ramirez who accepted as Sancho V Ramirez of Navarre. However, in the chronology of Aragon he was Sancho I Ramirez. The first coins of Aragon, consisting of dineros and obols, were issued during this reign. Sancho died on June 4, 1094 of a wound received at the siege of Huesca. He left three sons who succeeded him one after the other.

1. This chart is based on the data contained in Heiss and amended with information from Vidal Quadras y Ramon.

2. Both the denominations of obol and half dinero are listed although technically they are the same. This was done to conform with denominational lists in the basic references.

3. Heiss lists coins for Martin for Gerona but does not attribute silver coins to this king for Aragon.

V.Q.R., however, takes exception to this arrangement and on the basis that Gerona is not noted on these coins, classes them as true Aragonese issues. In our lists we have followed Heiss and placed the coins under Gerona but in the chart we have listed them twice, once for Gerona as a croat and half croat, and then again for Aragon as a real and half real. Specifically, the coins in question are:

A. +MARTINVS:DEI:GRA:REX:ARAGO (crowned bust facing the left). Rev.: DN. SPTECTOR:MEUS:ADIVTOR (lozenge with the arms of Aragon in a beaded quatrefoil border). Real (if Aragonese) or croat (if Catalanian) denomination. (Heiss plate 90, No. 2.)

B. +MARTIN'.DEI:GRA:REX ARG (crowned bust facing left, two pellets before and two behind the bust). Rev.: DNS:PECTOR ME' 3 ADIV (type similar to preceding coin). Half real (if Aragonese) or half croat (if Catalanian) denomination. (H.-90, 3).

The authors feel that the Aragonese attribution may well be the correct one since Gerona is not mentioned anywhere in the legend or definitely indicated in the types while Aragon is specifically included in the legend. Heiss may be wrong in his attributions of these coins.

4. The term escudo has been given to the gold coin of John II issued for Sicily in want of a better name since the coin resembles others of this denominations issued by other authorities.

5. Heiss does not note either the real or half real for Aragon under John I but the coins are included in the listings in Vidal Quadras y Ramon (V.Q.R.) so have been placed in the chart but are not given in our coin lists. The numismatist who compiled V.Q.R. Pedrals y Moline, was a recognized expert so it can be assumed that he attributed these coins with care. This same can be said for his attributions of the coins of Martin noted in paragraph 3.

Numismatic Vignettes

■ In this age of fifty megaton atomic bombs and even more terrifying neutron bombs, how does one go about writing a cheerful New Year's greeting on Thanksgiving Day? Still, with all of life's uncertainties taken into account, I do wish you happiness during the holidays, and good health and prosperity throughout the year 1962. May you find enjoyment in your numismatic activities during the coming year. Dwell but briefly on the failures and successes of the past. Look to the future as though it would last forever, but work as though everything you hope to accomplish must be done in this one year. And above all, share unselfishly with others the experiences, acquisitions and knowledge that will make life more enjoyable for all of us.

■ Some time ago we observed that the word "rare" is being used rather freely in connection with numismatic items, and suggested that "scarce" is often the more appropriate word. It was refreshing to read the following recently in an article on the overdated 1921-22 threepence, by Ron G. Stewart in the Australian Numismatic Journal. "The number of known specimens at present is estimated at seven. This is so small as to make these pieces scarce items . . ." You are indeed a conservative numismatist, Mr. Stewart.

■ The Bank of the United States, chartered in February, 1791, was not the first formal bank in this country. It was preceded by three others: The Bank of North America, chartered by the Continental Congress on the last day of 1781; The Massachusetts Bank, Boston, chartered in February, 1784; and The Bank of New York, which opened for business in June, 1784, and held an important place in both private and governmental affairs thereafter even though the state did not grant it a charter until March, 1791. The Bank of North America was the only bank permitted to retain its name unchanged upon entering the national banking system. All of its notes are very scarce now.

■ An off-center coin results when a planchet is not properly centered between the dies in the coining press. But, asked a friend, why isn't the protruding metal sheared off by the retaining collar when pressure is applied by the upper die? Not knowing the answer (do you?) we went to an expert and here's what the Editor of NSM says: The retaining collar is supported by springs, and any obstruction between the upper die and the collar pushes it down to the level of the lower die. Clever arrangement — just so we can have nice off-center coins instead of mutilations.

■ A Wisconsin A.N.A. member wrote that he has a $5 United States note, series of 1953A, with a yellow seal and yellow serial numbers. He did not mention anything abnormal in the color of the green back.

We do not remember seeing any published explanation of off-color paper money. The pigments used in making colored inks are subject to change by contact — either intentional or accidental — with certain chemicals. Now and then notes are found with the reverse design in blue or yellow color. This is usually the result of the note having been in the pocket of a garment which has been laundered and the detergent used supplied the chemical to modify the color.

A Chicago bank recently found a $5 United States note, series of 1953A, which was reported as having no seal or serial numbers. A look at the reverse gave the first clue, for it was a beautiful even light blue. Careful inspection showed very faint traces of the serial numbers, but the red seal could not be seen at all. The opinion of a Secret Service man verified our verdict — the note had been laundered in a detergent containing the right chemical to bleach out the red ink and change the green to blue. — GLENN S.

you do after the acid dip. Pure Benzene (not the commercial) is your best neutralizer because it contains no oxygen, evaporates readily in air and picks up any small chemical element that might remain on the coin after washing.

Now, all the above hard work could have been avoided by proper protection of uncirculated and proof coins in the beginning. As we have said so many times — coins are metals or combinations of metals which readily tarnish in the presence of oxygen — therefore the coin must be encased (housed) in something that keeps it airtight. That "something" must be a material that is inert, a material that has no oxygen in its chemical make-up that could be released onto the coin or will not absorb any oxygen from the air.

Such materials are available today. We have one antitarnish tissue that tests sulphur-free, but of course you can't have the pleasure of seeing your coins in antitarnish tissue. Then we have three, and only three, plastics that are safe (inert) which have been named previously.

In talking to many collectors over the years, some have said, "I placed my uncirculated coins in one of these safe plastics and it still tarnished." Whether you get your uncirculated coins from mint sacks or bank rolls, they must be inspected. It is not the fault of the inert plastic if some foreign element is on the coin when it goes into that Polyethylene envelope and later shows tarnish. The coin or coins were not properly prepared for storage or housing. Inspect or wipe your uncirculated coin with turkish toweling. Automatic roll machines deposit a certain amount of grease on all coins; even mint sacks deposit a "sack dust" on the coins which is harmful.

Think of chemistry when you first obtain and lay away your uncirculated and proof coins, and you will never have to resort to the burdensome detail of cleaning later on. With no mental worry about your investment, you can sleep nights with a serene peace of mind, knowing that your coins are properly protected. — DR. F. STEVENS EPPS, A.N.A. No. 7679, Homer, Mich.

No New British Halfpennies in 1961 — No halfpennies have been struck this year by the Royal Mint and it is unlikely that any will be struck during the remaining eight weeks of the year. The banks hold comfortable stocks and these are large enough to meet the heavy demand for bronze coins which is always felt during the Christmas shopping period.

In any case, however, the Royal Mint is holding millions of halfpennies in reserve in its stronghold. So it seems certain that 1961 will be the first year in which no halfpennies have been minted since the bronze coinage was introduced in 1860.

During the last war, the demand for halfpennies was persistent and in 1944 the record number of eighty-eight million was issued. But in more recent years also the demand has been very heavy and the number issued in 1959 — some seventy-two million — was the second highest in the history of the Mint.

But in 1960 the demand began to subside and it has now practically ceased. The reasons are not far to seek. The halfpenny as a unit of purchasing power is almost valueless. It is now used chiefly in the purchase of broken quantities of foodstuffs.

Will the halfpenny be minted again? Some people hope that it will not; they feel that it does not now serve a useful purpose and that it should follow its small brother, the farthing, into oblivion. But it is still a little early, perhaps, to chant its requiem.

The number of halfpennies in circulation today is around 1,010 million — about twenty for every person in the country. It may be that in the immediate future many of these will prove to be surplus to requirements and will drift back unwanted to the banks. But no one can be sure. The public demand for coin is absolutely unpredictable. — London Times, November 8, 1961 (Courtesy of Donald R. Johnson)

The word marzipan is erroneously credited to a Brandenburg cook named Frank Marzip. The truth, according to MD, the Medical Newsmagazine, is that the almond paste was known to Oriental gourmets for centuries. Crusaders brought it back to Europe in the shape of a coin then current, the marchpane. — Corn, Spring, 1961

Chemically Safe Coin Holders

Recently I noticed in one of our prominent coin publications this title: "Club Decides Coin Holders Not Perfect." This word "perfect" could be bounced around a bit. It could have many meanings, such as, convenience of display, transportation, storage, removing coins from a holder, or preservation of them in mint brilliancy. There never will be a "perfect" coin holder in an over-all sense because numismatists would never agree on what this word meant in referring to a coin holder.

Possibly, if we could narrow down the subject to one item, we might arrive at a conclusion by submitting definite proof of a fact, such as: there is a perfect holder for uncirculated and proof coinage that retains mint brilliancy. This, of course, would create some argumentation, which is always good, but the fact could be substantiated by available data on file today.

One wonders how some of the early coins show up from time to time in such an excellent state of preservation when in the early days of coin collecting some form of a cardboard holder or box was the only method of storage. The correct answer is that these early uncirculated and proof coins were housed in some airtight box or compartment that allowed no oxidation over the years. So don't laugh at the old cigar box, if it was airtight it was all right, it was good.

The first safe (perfect) product to come along for preserving mint brilliancy of a coin was antitarnish tissue—some brands were not so safe or perfect because they were not a pure sulphur-free paper. It became necessary to know which was the perfect antitarnish paper and who made it. No other paper or cardboard holder enters into this short discussion because we are confining ourselves to what constitutes a perfect holder for an uncirculated or proof coin.

After the advent of antitarnish tissue, the next material to fall into the realm of "perfect" protection was plastics. The whole family of plastics were taken in with open arms, with never a thought as to what made up the chemical aspect of these plastics—blue, black, red, and white—just as long as it was pretty, neat or attractive was all that mattered. The plastic holder was developed with such zeal and speed that some collectors were caught with tarnished coins in a year or more and it became necessary to "weed out" and find out which plastics were inert (those that would not tarnish the coin) from the plastics that were volatile and would combine with oxygen due to their chemical composition, and thus tarnish a coin.

No material affects a tarnish unless some element in that material will combine with oxygen to create a new chemical radical that attacks metal (coins are metal). We find that Cellulose-Butyrate or acetate, the Vinyls, the chlorides and their various combinations are not safe plastics. Sad to relate, many of our popular plastic holders are from these chemical compositions and are not safe plastics for proof or uncirculated coins.

Yes, we do have some safe plastics which we classify as inert because their chemical composition does not combine with oxygen and thus they are safe, in this instance "perfect." These plastics are: Ethylcellulose, Polystyrene, Polyethylene or combinations and derivatives of the same. So if a perfect coin holder means perfect protection for uncirculated and proof coins, then we do have several right now. Very few dealers or collectors are chemists or have time to dig out these facts, but I feel sure that when it comes to proper, scientific protection of mint brilliancy, that every numismatist is interested, or ought to be, in the chemical aspect of his plastic holders.

I note another title "Coin Care Discussed at ——— Club," in a still more recent publication. On reading this short article, the title, in this case, means cleaning properly (if needed). I wonder if this means the cleaning of an uncirculated or proof coin? All of us numismatists know that an uncirculated and proof coin should never be cleaned, and that a circulated coin is more valuable if never cleaned. An experienced collector can readily tell if a coin has been cleaned upon careful examination. We will assume in this instance that the article refers to proper cleaning of an uncirculated or proof coin. Any coin subjected to one of the various cleaners now on the market (and there are many), will tarnish quicker than it did before unless thoroughly "neutralized" after the dipping, regardless of the amount of washing or rinsing

British Decimal Coins Are on the Way — Britain is nearing a decision to switch her currency to decimal coinage. Mr. Selwyn Lloyd will make a statement before Christmas — and experts confidently expect a changeover. The most favoured plan is for a new shilling worth ten pennies and a pound note worth ten shillings.

A switch to decimals would involve drastic reorganization in industry and changes in education. Advantages would include simpler calculations, increased business efficiency, and in particular, easier working with Common Market countries.

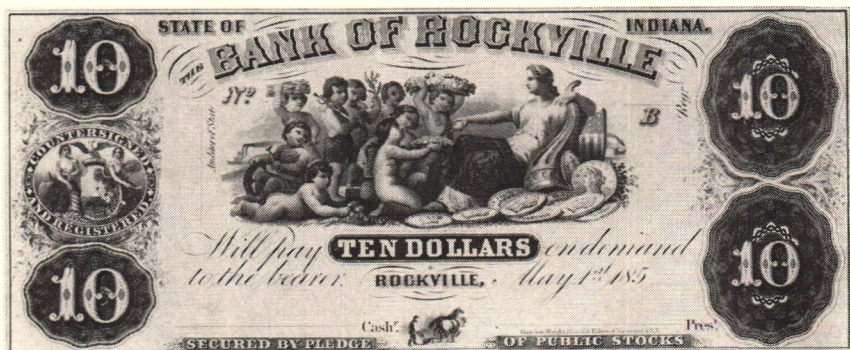

A formal ruling in favour of the change is still awaited from the Cabinet. But Treasury advice is overwhelmingly in favour. The main brunt of discussion now is on timing and how much notice to give.

At least a year would be needed to educate public opinion to the new shillings and pounds. It is estimated that a switch to decimals would cost between £350,000,000 and £500,000,000. A large slice of this would be for the conversion of business machines, such as cash registers and comptometers, and slot machines.

Government grants towards the cost would be made to industry, as South Africa did when she changed over last February. Text books, price tags, and travel tickets would be reprinted to give decimal values. — Walter Terry, in the London Daily Mail, November 3, 1961 (Courtesy of Donald R. Johnson)

Plans Completed for NASC Convention

Thirty-nine officers and club representatives attended a board meeting of the Numismatic Association of Southern California at the Los Angeles Hotel Statler November 19 to report on their work and plans for the "Lucky Seventh" convention at the Statler, February 22-25. The chairmen were commended for their excellent progress in completing arrangements for the Association's largest convention yet. All bourse space has been sold. Grace Brainard and Joy Parrish have scheduled an elaborate international fashion show for 2 p.m. Saturday, and Bill Fanning has booked entertainment for the banquet. Ellen Borgolte reported seating arrangements for the banquet and urges those wishing seats or an entire table to make reservations at once, as this event is always a complete sell-out. Banquet tickets are $7.00. The Association will be host to a breakfast for all club officers and representatives Saturday morning, to be followed by the business meeting.

Paper Money Merger

Representatives of the newly organized Society of Paper Money Collectors and the World Paper Money Club met at the Michigan State Convention in Detroit November 24-26 and agreed upon plans to merge the two organizations. According to Hank Bieciuk, President of S.O.P.M.C., the merger will be effective January 1, 1962, with the Society name being retained for the new organization. Officers of the world group will serve on the executive board of the new Society until the next regular election is held, and members of the World Club may join the Society by application at the regular dues rate of $3 annually without payment of the $1 initiation fee. The World club will appoint assistant editors to help in compiling the quarterly publication planned by the Society. Secretary of the Society is George Wait, Box 165, Glen Ridge, N. J.

NOTES FROM THE LIBRARIAN

Your Librarian and Mrs. Gabarron wish you a very Happy and Prosperous New Year. Be sure to include the library and the use of our facilities when you make your resolutions.

The library is maintained at a great cost to the Association for the benefit of the entire organization. This expenditure can only be justified on the basis that it is rendering a real service to our members. The sustained and continuous use of the facilities offered is the best index of its value to the Association. Bernie and I will look forward to a period of greater activity for the library in 1962.

We wish to thank the following for their generous donations: Warren A. Ruby, Earle D. Sherwood, Abe Kosoff, Arthur C. Matz, Lee Hallsted, Australian Numismatic Society, Seaby's, Stack's and F. Xavier Calico.

Mrs. Rae V. Biester has resigned her post of Superintendent of the U. S. Mint at Philadelphia to make room for a successor to be appointed by President Kennedy. Michael H. Sura of Philadelphia is being considered for the position.

Michigan's Convention

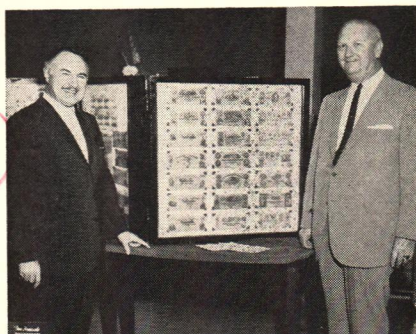

The November 24-26 convention of Michigan State Numismatic Society, held in the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel, was an outstanding success in all departments with a voluntary registration of about 1,250. Excellent business was reported from the crowded bourse of about a hundred dealers, and Tommy Ryan's auction realized good prices for most lots. The ladies were entertained by the Detroit Coin Club at bingo games on Friday and at a luncheon on Saturday.

Irving M. Moskovitz won the Best in Show exhibit trophy, with first place trophies and second and third place plaques being awarded as follows: U. S. coins—Emanuel M. Sulkes, George D. Hatie, Irving M. Moskovitz; paper money—Stuart Goodstein, James Kirkwood, George D. Hatie; ancients—George D. Hatie, Peter Kress; foreign coins—Irving M. Moskovitz, Miss Bobbie Burns (12 years old), Max Brail, William Lavell, Rev. Harry S. Winca; miscellaneous—Irving M. Moskovitz, David Jackson, Alex Kuszpit, Max Dean; gold coins—Irving M. Moskovitz.

At the Saturday evening banquet, presided over by General Chairman Earl Schill, an interesting talk on the Detroit 1962 ANA-CNA convention was given by Ben Stocker, President of both the Detroit Coin Club and Michigan State Numismatic Society. The following were elected at the business meeting to serve as officers during 1962: President, P. H. (Jim) Frans; First Vice President, Wilma Dean Roethke; Second Vice President, George D. Hatie; Secretary-Treasurer, William C. Marquand. The 1962 spring and fall conventions will be held April 6-8 in Saginaw and on dates to be announced in Flint. The 1963 spring affair will be held in Muskegon.

MUSICAL NOTES AND BANK NOTES

Cyrus H. Phillips (right), prominent member of the American Numismatist Association, shows a part of his prize money collection to noted band-leader George Liberace. The occasion was the opening of a new Bank of America branch office in Granada Hills, California. Phillips' exhibit traces the history of American currency from the early colonies to the present. Over 280,000 Californians have viewed the display since 1954.

was Dr. Conway Bolt's collection of Charlotte and Dahlonega mint gold, mint error coins, and Mrs. Bolt's coins of the Bible mounted in plastic. George Walton displayed his 1913 liberty head 5¢, a set of Charlotte and Bechtler gold, and fractional currency. Paul Whisonant had an elaborate display of currency which has won many awards for him, and Frank Hull displayed a type set of U. S. gold coins and some foreign coins. The successful affair was conducted by Grady C. Sizemore, Sr., Secretary of the Blue Ridge Association; Ralph Roach, President, and J. Frank Hull, Secretary of the Tri-County Club. — J. FRANK HULL

Policy on Copies

Dear Editor:

We wish to congratulate the numismatic societies in California for their interest in the medal field. If enough clubs take a stand in regard to manufacturer's holding to the original number struck and that copies of tokens or coins be clearly marked as copies in some way, I am sure that many inequities will be corrected. I am especially glad to see collectors of the caliber of Russell Rulau, Paul Hamm and Ralph Mitchell, take an active part in these endeavors.

After discussion with my partner, Frank Washburn, we have decided that with a struck copy of a Colonial coin which we are working on at present, and which will be ready in several months, the number of items struck will be listed and the dies then publicly destroyed, so that it will be impossible at any time to have any more struck. This will be one protection for the collector and we are sure that many other companies will follow suit.

This will make the medals more of a collector's item and they can have faith in the mintage as given by the company striking the medals. — MAURICE M. GOULD

Silver Cent Seized

Recently a coin, described as a 1946-D "silver cent," was taken from Coin Dealer Edward Baker, 830 Market St., San Francisco, Cal., by the U. S. Secret Service and sent to Washington for determination of its genuineness. Baker reports he was given a receipt stating "... if examination establishes that the coin was genuinely struck on a 10-cent planchet," the coin would be returned to him. If found counterfeit, it will be kept by the Government. Upon the establishment of genuineness and the return of the coin to Baker, the Government will seek a court order to confiscate the piece. In a letter Baker has said he would transfer his title to a club or other organization that "will fight to get this rare cent back, and once and for all establish the right of a collector to keep pattern coins and off-metal coins."

Texas Convention

A capacity crowd attended the October 7-8 fall convention of the Texas Numismatic Association. Thirty-five dealers from eight states reported good business. Mrs. Dolly-Maude Harris was toastmistress at the Sunday morning breakfast at which TNA's first President, Joe Davis, presented the awards. The judging committee, P. K. Anderson, Kalvart Tidwell and Hank Bieciuk, decided on the following exhibit winners: Stanley Rupert, best in show and first in modern foreign coins; Wallace Davis, first in gold coins; Mrs. Ava Setzer, first in odd and curious monies. Harry McAdams garnered three firsts in U. S. coins, U. S. and foreign paper money, and a second in gold coins. Shown non-competitively were half dollars by R. E. Cox, 1913 Liberty Head 5¢ by

Penn-Ohio Fall Show Registers over 2,000

For a true report of any event, the remarks of participants should be heeded. Here are a few that were heard at the fall convention of Penn-Ohio Coin Clubs at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Cleveland, October 13-15, 1961. "This is a fine show," "Beautiful and unusual exhibits." "Those panel discussions were truly informative." A dealer remarked "never had better treatment. Business fine and coffee breaks enjoyed." He referred to our hospitality room where coffee and snacks could be had anytime during the convention hours. Business was brisk in the bourse where almost anything from odd and curious to valuable and scarce items was available.

In the direction of promoting numismatics, a series of panel discussions were held under the direction of our program committee. The first was "An Outline of U. S. Tokens," with Ernest Cooke as moderator and panelists James Curto, Mrs. Lucy Kelly, Joe Lukas and J. William Ross. Ernest read an especially prepared paper on "A Broad Method of Classifying Tokens." Second was "Pros and Cons of Coin Cleaning," with moderator Francis Warren and panelists Alan Cohen, John Kelley, Lukas and Robert McNamara. Charles Feltham was moderator of "Let's Fight About Coin Grading," with panelists Ray Byrne, Clayton Gray and M. Vernon Sheldon. "Publicity for the Coin Club" was moderated by Ernest Cooke, with Robert Obojski, Lieda Ross and Tom Williams as panelists.

Exhibits are incentives to promoting numismatics as they open new horizons for oldsters and create ideas for those young in the field. An award offered to "First Time Exhibitors" produced some exceptionally fine material and arrangements. In this class, the award was a beautiful silver bowl donated by the Cleveland Coin Club as a tribute to the late Nate Gold and won by Fred Rosenthal with an exhibit of Napoleonic medals. Fred's story, "A Biography in Medals," appears in the convention souvenir journal, together with two pages of illustrations of medals of Napoleon and several other fine numismatic articles, which is available from the secretary at only 50¢ a copy.

Exhibit judges J. E. Charlton, Charles Litman and M. Vernon Sheldon placed other exhibits as follows: U. S. Coins—Gaston DiBello (also winner of the best-in-show trophy), David R. Robinson, Don DeVore; foreign coins—Cooke, Byrne, DiBello; U. S. Paper Money—William Halliwell, David Channell, Thomas Morrison; foreign paper money—James Kirkwood, Howard Murphy, Bill Lavell; medals and tokens—Charles J. Ricard, Don L. Decker, Cooke. Not in competition but a special feature of the show was the Armenian medal exhibited by Dr. Y. A. Sargis. As far as is known, it is the only medal of its kind in existence and this was the first time it had been exhibited. It, also, is pictured and told about in the convention journal.

Guests at the Saturday evening banquet found their places at attractively decorated tables, with soft dinner music by Adeline Huss. Birthday cakes with sparklers were presented to Miss Patsy Kolman and Mrs. Marcella Sheldon. Following a delicious dinner, the Reverend Albert J. Klein of Newton Falls filled the role of Master of Ceremonies in an entertaining and witty manner. Among the prominent persons introduced were C. C. Shroyer, President of A.N.A., Homer Swanson, President of Penn-Ohio Coin Clubs, the presidents and their wives of the seven clubs of Greater Cleveland, Thomas A. and Mrs. Morrison of Butler, Pa., now in their active nineties, and Father Klein's mother. A citation to Dr. Sargis was read by Homer Swanson, announcing the honor bestowed upon him for his contribution to numismatics over a period of many years. Following the presentation of exhibit awards, nationally known entertainer Michael MacDougall of New York afforded all a good time with his "Card Detective" act. Charles Barberene of Cleveland was the lucky winner of the 1863 three dollar gold piece. The 1962 conventions will be held June 22-24 at Neil House in Columbus and October 5-7 at Pick Ohio Hotel in Youngstown. — LAURA M. CADDY

Blue Ridge Meeting

The Blue Ridge Numismatic Association and the Tri-County Coin Club of South Carolina held their third annual convention October 28 at the Stadium Hut in Rock Hill. There were sixteen bourse tables, and exhibits, door prizes and an evening auction. About three hundred registered. Among outstanding exhibits

Uncirculated U. S. 1961 Coins Available from Treasury

Uncirculated 1961 U.S. coins may be purchased from the Treasury Dept. in sets only beginning January 1, 1962, and continuing through December 31, 1962, unless the available supply of coins is exhausted at an earlier date. A set consists of one each (half dollar, quarter, dime, five cent piece, and cent) of the coins, other than commemorative and proof coins, struck at each of the two mints of Denver and Philadelphia in 1961. The face amount of each set is $1.82.

The purchase price, $2.40 per set — which includes special handling charges, postage, and insurance — is the same whether the coins are purchased over the counter at the Treasury or shipped by mail to any place in the United States or its possessions. Orders from any single purchaser up to a maximum of eighty sets will be accepted. However, if the demand is so heavy that the supply appears in danger of exhaustion, the quantity furnished each applicant may be limited in an endeavor to make an equitable distribution of the available coins. Orders will be accepted after November 1, 1961, and will be filled in strict sequence of receipt date. Mailing will begin January 1, 1962.

Mail orders should be addressed to the Treasurer of the United States, Cash Division, Washington 25, D.C., accompanied by a remittance in the form of a United States postal money order, certified personal check, or bank cashier's check drawn to the order of the Treasurer of the United States. Remittance in incorrect amount, or not in form specified, will necessarily be returned. Please do not send cash. Sets are not returnable in exchange for a cash refund.

Uncirculated coin sets contain coins which have been produced for general business usage. They are minted by high speed presses, moved along conveyors, run through counting machines, packed several thousand to a bag, and shipped. Consequently, they are not entirely free from scars and scratches. The best uncirculated coins available are used. (Proof sets are available only at the United States Mint, Philadelphia 30, Pa.)

Besides the main lectures, there were three shorter ones:

Dr. J. Meyshan spoke on "Jewish Coins as Expressions of the Religious and Spiritual Development Reflected in the Historical Literature." He showed that the ancient Jewish coins supplement knowledge derived from other sources. The coins of the last Hasmonean King, Antigonus, for instance, reveal that his Hebrew name was "Mattathia." The coins of Hyrkanus II show that the Hebrew equivalent for the title "Etnarchos" given to him by Julius Caesar, was "Rosh Hever Hayehudim." The features of Agrippa I and Agrippa II — the latter from three different periods of his life — are the only surviving pictures of Jewish historical persons.

A. Kindler in his lecture, "The Influence of Greek and Phoenician Art on the Palestinian Coinage of the Fourth Century B.C.E." compared the style of Greek and Phoenician statues with the earlier coins, struck in Palestine. It is evident that Phoenician art, though of specific Eastern character, was considerably influenced by Greek art.

The final talk was given by N. Shahaf from Haifa, who spoke on "Harbors on Ancient Coins" and said that possibly famous ancient harbors were reconstructed from the pictures on coins. The harbor of Ostia from Roman sesterce, or the entrance to the harbor of Caesarea from a recently discovered medal were examples.

In the last session of the convention, Leo Kadman was reelected President of the Numismatic Society, while the new central committee is composed of Professor M. Avi-Jona, Dr. Shalit and Dr. A. Spaer from Jerusalem; Dr. A. W. Klimowsky, Dr. J. Meyshan and A. Kindler from Tel-Aviv; N. Shahaf, E. Kanitz and A. Talil from Haifa; M. Reshef, J. Ofek and A. Wegoman as representatives of the Kibbutzim.

Tours of the Denver Mint

(Mrs. Fern V. Miller, Superintendent of the U. S. Mint in Denver, has compiled the following information for those who may be considering a visit to the Denver Mint. — Editor)

General

The Denver Mint is open for tours all year with the exception of a period covering two to four weeks in June when there is an official shutdown of coinage operations for inventory*. The Mint is closed on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. A tour takes approximately one hour.

Reservations

Mint tours are by reservation, which normally should be made at least two weeks or more, if possible, in advance. In the summer months, as well as in those months covering school vacations, stock show, etc., it is recommended that reservations be made as far in advance as possible.

When requesting a reservation it is necessary to state the number there will be in the party. Also, it is advisable to give a second or third choice of dates.

No tickets or passes are issued. If the requested date is open you will receive a letter confirming the reservation; if the requested date is already filled, you will be so informed. There is no charge for the tour.

Tour Schedules

Two schedules are used throughout the year. They are as follows:

Summer Schedule: July 5 to Labor Day. Seven tours daily — 7:45 a.m., 8:45 a.m., 9:45 a.m., 10:45 a.m., 12:30 p.m., 1:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Remainder of Year: Two tours daily — 9:30 a.m. and 1:00 p.m.

Restrictions

Children under the age of eight are not permitted to make the tour. Cameras are not allowed in the building.

*In order not to disappoint those wishing to make the tour during this inventory shutdown period we allow the public to view a gold display on first floor. This may be done between 8:30 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. No reservation is necessary, nor is there a minimum age for children.

The Fifth Numismatic Convention in Israel

More than a hundred numismatists attended the fifth numismatic convention in Israel October 6-7 in the newly built Numismatic Museum at Tel-Aviv.

The general theme was "Art, Architecture and Religion on Ancient Coins."

Dr. H. A. Cahn, Basel, Switzerland, the well known scholar on Greek coinage and author of the important book The Coins of Naxos, lectured on "Greek Sculpture and Coins." He showed that sculptures were used as models for the types of Greek coins, a fact which enables us to reconstruct many sculptures surviving only as fragments: for instance, the Nike from Samothrake, or the Aphrodite from Knidos. On the other hand, the same artistic tendencies, which found their expression in sculptures, were also expressed in the special medium of the coinage.

Dr. L. Mildenberg from Zürich, known for his researches both in Greek and Jewish coinage, spoke about "Great Art on Small Greek Coins." Showing enlargements of minute coins of no more than 7 to 10 mm. in diameter, he proved that, despite their extreme smallness, these coins are of great artistic value, and fine examples of Greek art in the archaic as well as in the classic periods. The skill of the die cutters is astonishing, the more so as they had to work without modern tools or magnifying glasses.

Dr. (Mrs.) Zadoks-Jitta, Professor of Classic Archaeology of the University of Groningen, and Director of the Roman Department of the Royal Numismatic Museum at Den-Haag, lectured on "Roman Arts on Coins." She pointed out that the imperial portraiture on the Roman coins presented the emperor not as he really was but as he wished to appear. The imperial effigy, in this way, became the visual proclamation of the emperor's political program. On the other hand, the artistic ideas and tendencies prevalent in each specific period can easily be appreciated from the style of the portraiture: Beginning with the classicism of the Augustaeon period through the realism of the Antoniniis, the strange harsh naturalism of the Tetrarchy to the neo-classicism of Constantin the Great and his sons. The "picture-language" of the reverse — either a historical picture or a symbolic representation — even more clearly serves a propagandistic purpose. In a period without press, film, radio and television, the Roman coins which went from hand to hand throughout the Empire, and even beyond its frontiers, were used as an excellent medium of mass-communication. The reverse of these coins maintained a very high standard of art until the Fourth Century A.D.

Dr. A. W. Klimowsky in his lecture "Religious Symbols on Coins" suggested a new methodical approach to the interpretation of the symbols on the coins. He emphasized that the meaning and the message of the symbols can only be explained against the background of the time when they were minted. He warned of the danger of attributing to the same object the same meaning in different periods. The menorah on the coins of Mattathias Antigonus, for instance, was only the picture of one of the holy vessels in the Temple, while, after the destruction of the Temple, the same menorah became the symbol of the Jewish people and the Jewish religion. Similarly, the cross on the coins of Herod the Great had no specific meaning, but in the Fourth Century A.D. the cross became the main symbol of Christianity.

Leo Kadman devoted his lecture, "The Architectural Revolution in the Second Century C.E.," to the fundamental change in the form and structure of the classical Greek temple by the replacement of the architrave by a central arch and the opening of a gate in the front of the building. On the numismatic evidence, he stated that the new form is represented for the first time on the coins of the Palaestian cities (at first in Caesarea Maritime and Aelia Capitolina) and not in Syria as formerly assumed. Only fifty years later, the new form appears on coins of other parts of the Roman East. On a number of coins, two additional gates flank the central one, exactly as with the ancient synagogues. This strengthens the supposition that the architectural form of the Christian church developed from the synagogue and not from the Roman basilica. Similarly, the frescos of synagogues such as in Dura Euphratensis antedate biblical pictures in Christian churches by almost a hundred years. It seems that the influence of Palestine and the Jews on the development of architecture and art was greater than often assumed.

all United States Currency and Coins." The first one dollar bill with the motto on was printed in 1957.

Credit for locating the church should go to the Delaware County Historical Society, for financing the plaque to the Delaware County Coin Club, for the suggestion of a plaque to Harmer Cole. Installation of the plaque will be the afternoon of April 29 with presentation being made by Sam Newsome, President of the Delaware County Historical Society of Pennsylvania. — WILLIAM C. NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR MEDAL

The Medalllic Art Company of New York, the only firm in the world exclusively making bas-relief replicas from sculptors' models, has been commissioned to manufacture the official medallion of the 1964-1965 New York World's Fair. The memento will be in two sizes.

The larger, 2¾" in diameter, will be made in gold, silver and bronze for special gifts by the Fair, and the smaller, 2½" in diameter, will be sold publicly. There will be a limited silver issue. The Coin and Currency

Institute of New York will handle national distribution. The exact date of release of this piece for national sale has not been determined and it may be withheld until 1963 nor have retail prices been determined.

The Fair engaged Anthony de Francisci, a premier American medalist, to undertake the design. The result is a medallion bearing on its face in bas-relief the "unisphère," symbol of the Fair, and on the reverse, the Great Seal of New York in token of the three hundredth anniversary of the city in 1964.

The company was founded in 1900 by the late Henri Weil, who was making reductions for United States coinage. He went to Paris and brought back to this country the first Janvier machine, a then new reducing and die-cutting device which revolutionized a craft dating back to the Golden Age of Greece, and listing as its greatest protagonist, Antonio Pisano (1395-1455), an Italian better known as Pisanello, who has been called a "robust flowering of the Renaissance." Before 1900, all dies for coin, insignia, medals and decorations made in the United States were hand cut directly in steel, or bas-reliefs of sculptured models were taken to France for reduction and cutting of dies.

Medalllic Art still uses one of its original pieces of equipment in its studios at 325 East 45th St., where medals are struck with machines using up to one thousand tons pressure. During World War II the company turned out military medals at ten thousand a day.

Church, on Lincoln Ave., a half block up the hill from Chester Pike. So we now know where the letter was probably written.

Within a week of receiving the letter Treasury Secretary Samuel P. Chase dispatched the following to Mint Director James Pollock:

Treasury Department
November 20th, 1861.

Dear Sir:

No nation can be strong except in the strength of God or safe except in His defense.

The trust of our people in God should be declared on our national coins.

You will cause a device to be prepared without unnecessary delay with a motto expressing in the fewest and best words possible this national recognition.

Yours truly,

S. P. CHASE

Pollock referred the problem to Mint Engraver James Barton Longacre. I would guess that the idea of placing a motto on the coins was received favorably by Longacre, whose diaries reveal him to be a deeply religious man, even though it posed additional difficulties for engravers endeavoring to produce an artistic coinage. During the next few years a number of trial or pattern coins were engraved with the mottos such as "Our Trust in God," "Our God and Our Country," "God and Our Country," "God-Liberty-Law," and "God Our Trust."

It was in 1863 that Chase authorized the minting of the first two cent piece after changing the motto from "God Our Trust" to "In God We Trust." This two cent piece was first minted in 1864.

On March 3, 1865, Congress approved the use of the motto and specified that the Director of the Mint, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, should place the motto "In God We Trust" on such coins as would admit of the inscription.

Many coins designed after that have carried the motto. But in 1907 the newly designed gold coins appeared without the motto, which had been eliminated by order of President Theodore Roosevelt. He had, he felt, good reason. During the preceding decade, the fight had been on free silver, of adopting a fixed value, of sixteen to one relative to gold and silver. The Nevada silver interests were for it. The Democratic Party was for it. William Jennings Bryan had run for President three times and lost on that platform. The mining interests had supplied money for lobbying. They had signs made, roadside signs, which had a large picture of a silver dollar showing the motto "In God We Trust" and below the picture it said "There is only 63 cents worth of silver in this dollar. It is only worth 63 cents - In God We Trust for the Balance." Theodore Roosevelt considered these signs sacrilegious. However, public sentiment was against Roosevelt and on May 18, 1908, Congress passed an Act stating that all gold and silver coins were to bear the motto. Public pressure was responsible.

The suggestion to include "In God We Trust" on our paper currency was presented to Treasury Secretary George W. Humphrey, in November, 1953, by Matt H. Rothert, of Camden, Arkansas. Rothert's idea came to him a few months earlier while attending church one Sunday morning in Chicago. As the collection plate was being passed it occurred to him that only the coins in the plate had the motto. He then thought that since our paper money has a much wider circulation abroad than our coins, a message about this country's faith in God could be easily carried throughout the world if it were on United States paper money.

Secretary Humphrey favored the idea but felt that Congressional sanction was desirable. In March, 1955, through Rothert's efforts, bills were introduced into the Senate by Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, and the House of Representatives by Congressman Bennett of Florida and Harris of Arkansas.

The bill which was approved by President Eisenhower on July 11, 1955, specified "that at such time as new dies for the printing of currency are adopted by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the dies shall bear the inscription 'In God We Trust' and thereafter this inscription shall appear on

"In God We Trust"

The idea of a religious motto on our coins was started by a minister who wrote a letter to Washington, D. C., and signed the letter "M. R. Watkinson, Minister of the Gospel, Ridleyville, Pa." So we know that it came from Pennsylvania, but Ridleyville? That is not on the map.

Now, however, we know exactly where it was, and in April, 1962, during National Coin Week, a plaque will be presented by the Delaware County Coin Club, and placed on the Prospect Hill Baptist Church, Lincoln Ave. at Seventh St., Prospect Park, Pa. The minister of that church now is Rev. L. Earl Jackson.

The story started with the following now famous letter, which is now in the Ridgeway Library in Philadelphia.

November 13th, 1861

Hon. S. P. Chase
U. S. Sec. of Treas.

Dear Sir:

You are about to submit your annual report to Congress respecting the affairs of the National finances. One fact troubling our currency has hitherto been seriously overlooked. I mean the recognition of the Almighty God in some form on our coins.

You are probably a Christian. What if our Republic were now shattered beyond reconstruction? Would not the antiquaries of succeeding centuries rightly reason from our past coins that we were a heathen nation? What I propose is that instead of a Goddess of Liberty, we shall have next inside the thirteen stars, a ring inscribed with the words Perpetual Union, within this ring, the all seeing eye crowned with a halo. Beneath this eye the American Flag bearing in its field stars to the number of the States United. In the folds of the bands the words God, Liberty, Law.

This would make a beautiful coin to which no possible citizen could object — This would relieve us from the ignominy of heathenism. This would place us openly under the divine protection we have personally claimed. From my heart I have felt our national shame in disowning God as not the least of our national disasters.

To you first I address a subject that must be adjusted.

Yours most respectfully,

M. R. WATKINSON
Minister of the Gospel
Ridleyville, Pa.

The above letter was by a minister in a church that was then called "Ridley Baptist Meeting House." At the time the letter was written Prospect Park had not been incorporated into a borough, and Lincoln Avenue had not been named. The church started in 1830.

Rev. Mark R. Watkinson preached in that church. He evidently took a dim view of the war that was about to commence, for he figured the war might destroy civilization.

This story came to the attention of Mrs. Elsie M. Jones, Curator for the Delaware County Historical Society in a letter she received in May, 1954, from a correspondent in Arizona who was trying to locate Ridleyville. Mrs. Jones remembered a booklet issued on the one hundredth anniversary of the First Baptist Church of Ridley Park in 1930, and found in it the story of the old Baptist Meeting House on Lincoln Ave. Here the Rev. Mark R. Watkinson was pastor twice, first in 1851-1853 and again in 1861-1864 after leaving Virginia because he was against secession. When Rev. Watkinson first preached in the Ridley Baptist Meeting House, he must have been a young man. We do not know his exact age but we do know that the Broad Street Church in Philadelphia ordained him as a minister in 1851 so that he could preach in the Ridley Baptist Meeting House.

The church which was incorporated in 1830 was divided in 1879 and a beautiful blue stone church was built at the corner of Ward Ave. and East Ridley Ave., in Ridley Park. The new church, now called First Baptist Church, is over a mile from the old church which is now called Prospect Hill Baptist

"Why go to California? In that ridge lies more gold than man ever dreamt of. . . . There's millions in it!" The miners went to California* anyway, but they carried with them Dr. Stephenson's phrase, "Millions in it!" Later, in California, the phrase was picked up by other miners until one day Mark Twain heard it, and put it into one of his stories, "The Gilded Age" — and into the mouth of Colonel Mulberry Sellers.

In 1854, and for that one year only, the Dahlonega Mint struck three dollar gold pieces, 1,120 pieces, of Engraver Longacre's Indian Head design.

Georgia seceded from the Union January 19, 1861. (U. S. records report a total of $6,115,569 being struck up to that time.) The Dahlonega Mint was taken over by Governor Joseph E. Brown of Georgia. The Militia began striking coins but no record exists of what dates or denominations were coined. The 1861 one dollar gold pieces are in this category, the die having been delivered on January 7 just before Georgia's secession.

In May, 1861, all bullion, monies and nitric acid were turned over to the Confederate Treasury. (It is said that the nitric acid necessary for making explosives was the greatest contribution made by the Mint to the Southern cause.) All activity at the Mint ended in June, 1861.

Very little is known about activities surrounding the Mint building during the war years. There is one juicy morsel that has turned up in old court records. In answer to a question during a divorce case, a witness told of a man spending the night in the Mint building with the woman in question! So, some use was made of the building.

Toward the end of the war Federal troops occupied the building and grounds and are reported to have removed the machinery and equipment. Troops remained in Dahlonega for military rule until 1868. An old newspaper describes the Mint grounds as having a guard house, sweat boxes used for punishment and a place fixed to hang soldiers by the thumbs for getting drunk and other offenses. There is also an account of the building being used in 1866 by a metallurgist who did business in connection with some mining that was going on. The building was a school for colored children until their own was built by the Freedmen's Bureau.

Finally, the United States Marshal put the building up for public sale. The only offer made was a little over thirteen hundred dollars, and the Marshal refused to approve the sale. A month later, April 20, 1871, Congress authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to convey the Mint building and land to the State of Georgia for educational purposes. A Board of Trustees was incorporated to accept it for a north Georgia agricultural college. That, of course, was the official end of the Mint at Dahlonega.

The Agriculture College opened in 1873 and four years later became a military college. Shortly after that, in 1878, one cold December night, fire broke out, supposedly from a pine beam anchored deep in a brick chimney on the second floor. The next morning, the historic old building was in ruins — all except the foundation. However, so devoted were the citizenry to the college that they rebuilt on top of the same foundation.

And today when you visit Dahlonega, you will see one of the finest military colleges in the prettiest countryside you will find anywhere. There are numerous other buildings on the property also, one being the library where you may see a complete collection of Dahlonega Mint gold coins. There are fifty-nine pieces in all, although some collectors add one more variety and say that sixty pieces are required for a complete set. And back of the library, lying "in state," so to speak, is an old flywheel from the machinery room of the Mint which now forms a platform of honor for the bugler. Maybe you'll go down into the basement of the main building and find yourself in the old machinery room, looking around at the granite walls and the archways, and link yourself momentarily with the miners of bygone years in their heavy boots, rough clothes, standing in line with their goose quills filled with gold dust and pockets full of gold "buttons" as they wait their turns to have them struck into coins at the U. S. Branch Mint at Dahlonega.

*Another connection the Dahlonega area has with gold mining in the west has to do with Colorado. Among the miners who left Auraria in 1858 were the Russell brothers who first found the gold that began the Pikes Peak Gold Rush of '59. They founded a little settlement on the side of a creek and named it "Auraria" after their home town in Georgia. A month later another party began a settlement on the opposite side of the creek. By April, 1860, the two towns had grown so that they merged under the name of Denver, Colo.

Coiner, Assayist, Refiner, Melter and no more than five subordinate employes.

Agnatius Alphonso Few, Columbus, Ga., was appointed commissioner in charge of the erection of the building. But Columbus was separated from Dahlonega by an area in which tribal Indian wars were still being carried on, and Few found business and his preaching so pressing, that he made few inspection trips to Dahlonega. (Other than this neglect, history shows Few to have been an honorable man, later becoming founder and first president of Emory University.)

A beautiful ten-acre tract was selected in May, and purchased in August from William Worley for $1,050. The northwest corner of Lot 949, this land was originally drawn in the lottery by Archibald Carpenter, and later sold to Paul Furr who resold to Farish Carter, who sold to William Worley — all within two and a half years' time.

The plans arrived from the Director of the Mint in August and bids were requested. Benjamin Townes received the contract with the lowest bid of the eight, $33,450,000. The building was to be completed by March 22, 1837.

Townes planned to have the cellars and foundations dug and have all the materials "laid by" during the first year's work. (The lumber had to be cut and sawed, granite for the foundations had to be quarried and wood to fire the kiln that would make the brick had to be stored.)

By March of 1837, the building was far from being completed. Several walls had collapsed — due, according to a special inspector's report, to the complete lack of skill on the part of the labor used. It was also discovered that no plan for a well had been made, although water would be needed to supply the steam engine and for other necessities. Congress appropriated additional money to cover back expenses and for tools and fixtures not included in the original contract.

The Mint was a beautiful two story building with seventeen windows across the long front. Two stone pillars marked the front entrance. A stone foundation wall more than five feet high and forty inches thick added to its design as well as its security. The building was on a hill overlooking the town square where the court house (which is still in use) stands on the very site where Benjamin Parks had had a "licklog" for his horses. (Incidentally, for a short while, a few people called the little settlement "Licklog.")

Mint machinery arrived in Savannah in May, 1837, from Philadelphia by boat. Ox-carts carried it two hundred miles overland to Dahlonega. Men who installed the machinery in Charlotte were used and completed the installation in Dahlonega in November, 1837. Three months later, February, 1838, the United States Branch Mint at Dahlonega was in operation, turning out five dollar gold pieces at the rate of fifty to sixty per minute. A total of 20,583 half eagles, bearing the Liberty Head and a "D" above the date were issued the first year.

This sounds like the happy ending to the story, but remember that 1838 was the deadline for the Cherokees to be out of the state, but few of them had departed. Therefore the Federal Government sent troops to guard the Mint building in case of an Indian uprising. In May, after the opening of the Mint, General Winfield Scott arrived with the delicate duty of rounding up the Cherokee Indians and leading them out of the state on the "Trail of Tears," as history has named this tragic removal.

With the Indians moved, Georgians looked forward to great prosperity. Gold, usually in the form of "buttons," flowed rapidly from ground to Mint, although many miners used their gold in trade, or sent it to other Mints to keep secret the richness of their strikes. In the second year Dahlonega began coining quarter eagles. One dollar pieces were first struck in 1849.

Also in 1849 came the Gold Rush to California, and thus ended Georgia's role of being the paramount gold producer of the country. Many hundreds of Georgia miners went west. The easy gold having been worked by now, more serious mining was necessary to turn out gold in the same quantity.

The Assayist at the Dahlonega Mint in 1849 was highly respected Dr. Matthew F. Stephenson, who pleaded with the miners not to desert the Georgia mines. He mounted the court house steps one Saturday — when he heard that several hundred miners were ready to leave — and made an eloquent appeal for them to stay. One of his remarks has had an interesting aftermath. Dr. Stephenson pointed toward Crown Mountain and Findley Ridge and said,

There was no town, no Dahlonega, no settlement of any description when gold was discovered — only woods, deer, wild turkeys and rattlesnakes. But the excited fortune hunters hastily built bark houses, shanty stores, splitlog houses, pine pole lean-tos.

While the discovery of gold was outside the Cherokee boundary, the "intruders," as the adventurers were called, stamped over the Georgia hills without regard to boundary or rights. Gov. Gilmer of Georgia tried to keep the prospectors out of the Cherokee territory. He even sent the Georgia guard to stop the diggers. (Many of them deserted and joined the ranks of the gold diggers!) Federal troops were also sent to protect the Indian Territory, and were stationed five miles below Dahlonega. (This spot is still referred to as "The Station.") But all of this was of no avail. In this crisis, the Georgia legislature took over the Cherokee lands and extended state laws over the Cherokee Nation.

During 1830, the first gold was delivered from the Dahlonega area to the Philadelphia Mint — $212,000. Templeton Reid was issuing gold coins, all dated 1830, from his private mint in Gainesville, Ga.

Meantime, a settlement had grown up about six miles southwest of the present site of Dahlonega. An interesting episode surrounded this settlement — first known as "Nuckollsville" and later as "Auraria." After Georgia took over the remaining lands of the Cherokees (in 1830), a land lottery was conducted to dispose of the land to Georgia citizens — Indians excluded — to get the land on the tax books.

Seven hundred surveyors were employed to divide the land into forty-acre gold lots and one hundred sixty-acre farms. Two heavy lottery drums were built at the penitentiary, one to hold the names of the citizens, and the other numbers of each tract of land. According to the rules, each single male was entitled to one "draw" and married men were entitled to two "draws"; widows and orphaned children were each allowed one "draw."

John R. Plummer took two "draws," claiming to be a married man, which was later proved not to be so. One of the lots which he happened to draw was a part of the town of Auraria. Shortly after this, the County of Lumpkin (named in honor of the Governor) was being organized and the location of the county seat was being discussed. Auraria was the logical choice, as it was the oldest, largest and most prosperous settlement; but a clear land title could not be obtained because of a suit involving Plummer's dishonest "draw." Auraria was not selected. Instead, a little settlement — with no name — just Lot 950, 12th District, 1st Section — six miles away was selected as the county seat. When the First Superior Court Session was held, it voted to name the little place "Talonega," a Cherokee word meaning "yellow color," but color with great beauty, and great value — gold. "Talonega" went through a series of spellings, but has been spelled "Dahlonega" officially since 1833. So, except for Plummer, the Georgia-minted coins might have been mintmarked with an "N" for Nuckollsville or an "A" for Auraria!

The first bank in Lumpkin County had the whimsical name of Pigeon Roost Bank. Actually, it was a private bank for the Pigeon Roost Mining Company. The bank was never incorporated but the mining firm was. Built in 1833, the building collapsed in 1916. Two of the doors were saved and were used on barns in the neighborhood. One door is now on display by the Dahlonega Chamber of Commerce. More than a thousand homemade nails had been driven into the door to render it burglar proof.

Under the final U. S. treaty with the Cherokees in 1835, the latter were to receive equal land west of the Mississippi plus a payment of five million dollars in return for giving up all claims to Georgia land. The tribe had until 1838 to complete the move.

By 1835 gold was pouring from the Dahlonega district, and transported to the Philadelphia Mint by ox-carts and wagons. The trip was difficult. Petitions were circulated urging a branch mint for the Dahlonega area. Influential citizens had been working on the idea since 1830 and Congress was receptive to the plan. Accordingly, on March 3, 1835, an Act was adopted establishing three branch mints, to be located at Charlotte, New Orleans, and "one, in or around Dahlonega." Fifty thousand dollars was appropriated for the Dahlonega Mint which was to make gold coins only; an additional fifteen thousand dollars was set up for the salaries of the Superintendent, Chief INDIANS had been living in what is now the State of Georgia since prehistoric times. They used the gold found there in ornaments and for barter. Probably the sights of these nuggets did much to encourage Spanish expeditions to the New World. Both Hernando De Soto in 1513 and Tristan De Luna in 1540 are thought to have mined gold in Georgia, discoveries of early Spanish relics indicating they did.

In 1732 General James Oglethorpe established an English colony at Savannah and thus became the founder of Georgia. As colonists moved inland, they encroached on the lands of the Cherokee Indians living in the Appalachian foothills in north Georgia.

The western bounds of Georgia at that time was the Mississippi River, but in 1802 she ceded all of her land beyond the present western boundary to the United States on condition the Federal Government would move all the Indians and their claims out of state. Through a series of treaties, the Indians were induced to move as far west as the Chestatee River but there they stopped.

By 1825 the Cherokees were largely civilized. The U. S. census of that year showed that they lived a life comparable to that of the frontiersmen. They engaged in agriculture and business, kept up public roads, supported a library and a museum, had an eighty-six letter alphabet invented by Sequoya, had a governmental system patterned after that of the United States, were members of Methodist and Baptist, Presbyterian and Moravian churches, and read their own newspaper, The Cherokee Phoenix. They were understandably reluctant to leave their beloved homeland and had no intention of giving up any more land.

Georgians became impatient. Their impatience changed to indignation, as shown by contemporary newspaper editorials. Indian feelings ran to that of abuse and injustice, as pathetically stated in their editorials.

During this very tense situation, gold was discovered in 1828 by a white man two miles from the Chestatee River, the Cherokee eastern boundary. The first gold rush in America began.

Six-foot-two, twenty-six-year-old Benjamin Parks, who pioneered from North Carolina, was the first white man to find gold in Lumpkin County, Ga., and the first to discover vein gold in Georgia. Parks was hunting deer when he kicked a piece of quartz and saw gold in it, as he described it later, "as yellow as the yolk of an egg." He was on a ridge of land belonging to Reverend Obarr, a Baptist preacher. Although the minister was at first dubious and thought a joke was being played on him, he and Parks agreed to a forty year lease on two hundred thirty-nine acres in exchange for a fourth of any gold found there.

Parks took on a partner, and together with their families they panned for gold in the gravel of the streams. Upon learning that gold was being found in considerable quantities, the Reverend Obarr tried desperately to buy back his lease to no avail. Finally, the minister sold his land to Judge Underwood, who in turn sold it to Senator John C. Calhoun of South Carolina. Calhoun then negotiated with Parks, bought the lease and worked the mine for a time with his slaves. Later, his son-in-law, Thomas G. Clemson, was placed in charge of the operation.

News of Parks' discovery spread very quickly even in those days of the pack horse and wagon. Hundreds of men converged on the area and began prospecting recklessly in every stream and on every hillside. Within a year, between ten and fifteen thousand people of every character and description were living in and around the Dahlonega area. It is not difficult to imagine the lawlessness based on greed that must have taken place during those days. The stories are fantastic!

JOHN III OF PORTUGAL

John III was born in Lisbon on June 6, 1502, and succeeded his father, Emmanuel I on December 19, 1521. He was the first child of Emmanuel and Maria, the daughter of that famous pair, Ferdinand and Isabel of Spain. Maria was Emmanuel's second wife.

On February 5, 1525, John married Catherine, the sister of Charles V. Catherine of Austria, daughter of Philip the Beautiful and Juana the Crazy One, was born in Torquemada on January 13, 1507, and died in 1578.

John was responsible for an improved University of Portugal. The campus was moved from Lisbon to Coimbra in 1537. He assumed much of the university expense himself.

Portugal had to borrow money to keep her enterprises the world over going. Colonization, ship-fitting, loss of profit due to price reductions, and a decline in trade made it nip and tuck for a balanced budget. For this reason, trade was promoted with Brazil, and the African and Asian colonies allowed to decline. Another blow was the loss of shiploads of Brazilian valuables to the daring French privateers.

John was influenced by the Church and has been accused of allowing the commercial and social prosperity to decline in favor of the Church. He extended the Dominicans of Portugal, introduced the Inquisition in 1526, and fostered the extension of the Jesuits to America and India. He insisted that several Jesuits accompany the first Governor to Brazil, Thomé de Souza, and in 1534 divided Brazil into hereditary captaincies.

John and Catherine had six boys, none of whom survived childhood, and three daughters. One of his daughters, Maria, married Philip II of Spain. John had two illegitimate children. All his children preceded him in death. John died in Lisbon of apoplexy in June, 1557, and was succeeded by his grandson, Sebastian, son of John's fifth son.

In 1932 a silver two milreis coin bearing a facing bust of John III was minted in Brazil. The obverse read IV CENTENARIO DA COLONIZACAO DO BRASIL 1532-1932. On the reverse was the value and a scrolled coat of arms. The diameter was 26 millimeters.

Decimal Currency in Australia — The Australian Treasurer, Mr. Holt, has stated that Australia, New Zealand, and the United Kingdom had not made any firm decision on the simultaneous introduction of decimal currency. Mr. Holt said that, at the recent meeting of Commonwealth Finance Ministers, he had pointed out that a decimal currency was unlikely to be introduced in Australia before 1965. If more than one of the three Governments were to adopt decimal currency, there might be an advantage in their doing so at about the same time, with uniformity in the names of coins.

PEDRO ALVARES CABRAL

"No experienced navigator who has studied minutely the history of Cabral's discovery has concurred in the opinion that it was accidental" — Nowell

Brazilian four thousand reis of 1900

Pedro Alvares Cabral was born in Azurara, Beira, Portugal, between 1460 and 1468. He was the third child of Fernao Cabral, the adiantado of the province, and Isabel de Souvea. Pedro married Isabel de Castro, daughter of the distinguished Fernando de Noronha after 1500.

It has been claimed that the Portuguese had knowledge of the coast of Brazil prior to 1494, and in 1498 Duarte Pacheco Pereira was secretly dispatched to Brazil. The northeastern coast of Brazil was discovered in February, 1500 by Vicente Yáñez Pinzón.

On Sunday, March 8, 1500, King Manoel of Portugal saw the expedition which he had financed depart from Restelo (now Balem). Thirteen ships, twelve hundred soldiers and seamen were in the party led by Cabral. Few of the Royal instructions to Cabral are extant. The Canary Islands were passed on March 15, and Cape Verde sighted March 22. Object of the expedition: Brazil.

Nowell, in his article "Discovery of Brazil," Hispanic-American Historical Review, states "No experienced navigator who has studied minutely the history of Cabral's discovery has concurred in the opinion that it was accidental." Vegetation was seen floating on the water, and birds flying overhead on April 21. On Easter Sunday, April 22, 1500, Monte Pascoal, Easter Mountain, was sighted at Latitude 16° 20' South. The land was named Santa Cruz, "Land of the True Cross."

Religious services were held by Father Henriquez, later Bishop of Ceuta, on the island of Coroa Vermelha in the Bay of Cabralia.

Another version of the story discredits the purpose of the voyage, and claims Brazil was discovered by accident. Others believe currents or storms sent the expedition westward.

Cabral sent one of his ships back to Portugal with tidings of the discovery and conducted many explorations up and down the coast. He did not change his original belief that he had discovered an island.

On May 2, 1500, the expedition left the South American continent and bore eastward. The Cape of Good Hope, Africa, was sighted. In this area storms destroyed four ships, including that of Bartholomew Diaz. Sofala was reached on July 16; Mozambique July 20; Kilwa on July 26. At Melinde on August 2 a pilot was picked up who was to take them on to India.

With spices and riches of the Orient, Cabral arrived in Lisbon on July 23, 1501. Thus, he made the first voyage from Europe to the New World, to the Orient, and back home. Despite his exploits, a cold welcome awaited him. He was censured for the losses suffered under his command, only six ships having returned.

History does not mention this famous man after his return, though it is reported he retired to private life. Some say he refused an offer to lead another expedition to Brazil because of the restrictions imposed by King Manoel. He is reported to

HILARION GROSOLE DAZA

"Nature intended him to be a pickpocket but instead he became President of Bolivia" — Chapman

Bolivian twenty centavos

Hilarión Grosole Daza was born in Sucre in 1840 and was reared by a paternal uncle after his parents abandoned him. He adopted his mother's maiden name, Daza, as his main surname instead of Grosole, that of his father.

He entered the army in 1857, became a sergeant in 1861 and a sergeant major three years later, becoming personal aide to President Melgarejo. He was involved in various revolutionary disturbances between 1858 and 1876. Once he turned traitor to Melgarejo for 10,000 pesos. As General Daza he served as Minister of War under President Frías, whom he overthrew in May, 1876. Frías was jailed and exiled.

Thus began the reign of the last rude hard-drinking caudillo of his country. Corruption seldom equalled in a South American republic occurred during the administration of this drunken reprobate.

Under President Melgarejo concessions to Bolivian nitrate deposits were made to Chile. These included tax-free provisions and right to mine and export for financial considerations. Under President Frías secret pacts were made with Perú in 1873, to guarantee no further encroachment by Chile. Daza in 1876 tried to tax all Chilean nitrate removed 10¢ per quintal, subject to seizure if not paid. This led to a declaration of war on Chile on March 1, 1879, following Chilean attacks in the Atacama desert regions. In April, Bolivia joined the Peruvian forces at Tacna. The personal incompetence and cowardice of Daza led to mutiny on December 27, 1879. When word of this leaked out in La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, a revolution quickly broke out. On the field of battle Daza was succeeded by General Campero. Campero took over as President on January 19, 1880. As a result of the mutinous defection, Bolivia lost her only corridor to the sea, and has since been one of the two inland countries of South America. On March 1, 1894, Daza died at Uijuni following a mob attack.

During the administration of Daza a twenty centavo silver coin was minted. The obverse had an oval shield of arms, surmounted by a condor, over a trophy of military arms, eleven stars below. On the top edge was the reading, REPUBLICA BOLIVIANA and under the stars ENERO 14 DE 1879. On the reverse, EL EJERCITO NAL. AL. PRESIDTE. DE LA PEPA, with the head of Daza to the left, and under, H. DAZA, and at the bottom, 20 CET; 23 millimeters.

Nearly all of the silver pieces issued by the individual states bear the Imperial German arms, an eagle, on the reverse. Beginning in 1890, a new, nearly round design of the arms appeared and between 1910 and 1915 several modified designs were introduced on a few pieces. The edge inscription is GOTT MIT UNS, except for the two mark pieces, which have a reeded edge.

After 1871 the following mint letters were used for the mints listed to the right of them:

- A Berlin
- B Hannover (discontinued since 1878)
- C Frankfurt am Main (discontinued since 1880)
- D Munich
- E Dresden
- F Stuttgart
- G Karlsruhe
- H Darmstadt (discontinued since 1883)
- J Hamburg

Of these mints, A, D, F, G, and J are still in operation.

The Imperial silver coins were struck from silver nine hundred fine and had a weight of 5.55 grams per mark. Thus, the five mark pieces weighed 27.78 grams. (The U. S. dollar weighs 26.72g.) Gold pieces were also struck in the denominations of ten and twenty marks, in addition to a few five mark pieces. The gold was nine hundred fine. The ten mark pieces weighed 3.982g, while the twenty mark pieces weighed 7.965g. No gold coins were ever struck as official currency after 1914 in Germany. During the Imperial period minor coins were issued in denominations of one, two, five, ten, twenty, twenty-five and fifty pfennigs, as well as one-half and one mark. When we note that all of the Morgan dollars except the 1895 were struck in quantities of at least one hundred thousand we can realize how low many of the German strikings of a comparable period were.

After World War I Germany had a hyperinflation. The rentenmark was introduced in December, 1923. This unit was so named because it was supposed to be based on tangible property values rather than gold. Shortly thereafter the name reichsmark was introduced, which designation was retained until the currency reform of 1948, when the deutsche mark was introduced.

Beginning in 1924, silver coins were again struck, but until the end of the Weimar Republic in 1933, all of them had a fineness of only five hundred, while the weight was only five grams per reichsmark. The edge inscription, where it occurs, was usually, but not always, EINIGKEIT UND RECHT UND FREIHEIT ("Unity, Justice and Freedom"), which motto was also used starting with the year 1951 by the new Federal Republic. The commemorative coins in the Weimar Republic represent a zenith in German monetary history from an artistic point of view. All of the commemorative topics were struck in the three mark denomination and nine of them in the five mark denomination.

During the National Socialist period (1933-1945) the weight of the five mark pieces was reduced to 13.88 grams, but the fineness was increased to nine hundred once more. The two mark pieces of this period had a fineness of six hundred twenty-five and a weight of eight grams. Only three commemorative topics were put on coins during this nadir of German history. The edge inscription of the regular two mark and five mark pieces of this period is GEMEINNUTZ GEHT VOR EIGENNUTZ ("The Good of the Nation takes Precedence over the Good of the Individual"), reflecting the socialistic nature of the German government of that period. The German Federal Republic has made a start toward reviving the centuries-old traditions of large German silver coins.

LARGE GERMAN SILVER COINS SINCE 1874

By

DR. CHARLES E. WEBER, LM 285

After the German victory over Napoleon III and the establishment of the German Empire in 1871, laws of the Empire provided for the issuing of a new currency. In contrast to the varied monetary systems that had been in use previously in the German states, the new currency was to be used throughout the Empire. In addition to a rather extensive gold series with some relatively large strikings, the individual states issued pieces of two and five marks and later (1908 ff.) three mark pieces. No minor coins were struck for the individual states.

The following table lists the states of the German Empire after 1871. The names of the states are followed by the numbers of more or less distinct types of silver coins issued by the states during the period 1874-1918 (excluding unofficial issues, minor varieties, different dates, mints, etc.). The numbers following in parentheses are strikings by date in quantities of over a hundred thousand, while the numbers in square brackets represent the numbers of strikings by date in quantities of at least one million. Finally, the area of the state in square kilometers (1 sq. km. = 0.386 sq. miles) and its population on Dec. 1, 1880 are given.

A.N.A.-C.N.A. COMBINED CONVENTIONS

The first combined convention of the American and Canadian numismatic associations will be held from August 15 through 18, 1962, at the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit. This is the first international numismatic convention to be held in the New World.

The hotel, the largest in the motor city, offers well-lighted, spacious facilities for the dealers' bourse and for individual exhibitions of coins. Provisions are being made for complete security for the valuable items on display. Both the functions rooms and the guest rooms of the hotel are completely air conditioned.

The bourse and exhibits at the convention will be displayed in three newly-decorated ballrooms on one floor to facilitate easy inspection by dealers, collectors, and visitors.

The Sheraton-Cadillac, with 1,200 modern guest rooms, is located in the heart of Detroit, within easy walking distance of entertainment points, theaters, the world famous J. L. Hudson Company and the Money Museum at National Bank of Detroit. Those who have never visited Canada will particularly enjoy a visit to Windsor, a five-minute trip via the bridge or tunnel from Detroit.

Five newly-decorated cocktail-and-dining rooms in the hotel provide convention visitors with fine food in a variety of settings. The street-level Motor Bar, fashioned in the style of an old English pub, specializes in roast beef. Piano entertainment is featured each evening.

On the lobby level is the unique Cafe Caprice, an ultra-modern cocktail lounge decorated with a giant abstract mural and see-through plastic chairs. In the Town Room popular prices prevail for luncheon, breakfast and dinner in a garden-like setting. The luxurious Book Casino, long a favorite luncheon meeting place for visiting dignitaries and celebrities, serves breakfast and lunch Monday through Friday.

CORDOBA: The unit of Nicaragua first issued in 1912. The name is derived from Francisco Hernandez de Cordoba, one of the Spanish conquis- tadores whose bust appears on the larger coins. Cordoba subdued that part of Central America now occupied by Nicaragua. There are subdivisions of 50, 25, 10, 5, 1 and ½ CENTIMOS de CORDOBA.

CORNADO: A Spanish silver coin first issued by Alfonso X of Castile (1252-1284), principally at Toledo. The obverse bears a crowned bust of the king from which it derives its name, corona being the Spanish word for crown. The reverse device is a three-towered castle. The coin was gradually debased until it was discontinued early in the sixteenth century.

Latin American Currency Display at Boys Town Enlarged — The frames of foreign currency at the Boys Town PhilaMatic Center have been remounted recently, and many new bank notes have been added. The new additions all have been donated by the many friends of the Center and visitors from around the world.

Many new frames of currency represent Latin America, with the largest addition being in Brazilian currency, which has been augmented by the addition of thirty-three different bank notes. Other nations which have been added are Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Haiti, Nicaragua, Peru, El Salvador and Uruguay.

Most of the bank notes from Latin American countries are printed in the United States by the American Bank Note Company of New York. This company also printed the first United States bank notes in the days when the company was known as Rawdon-Wright-Hatch. Some of the Latin American currency is printed by De LaRue or Waterlow & Sons in England.

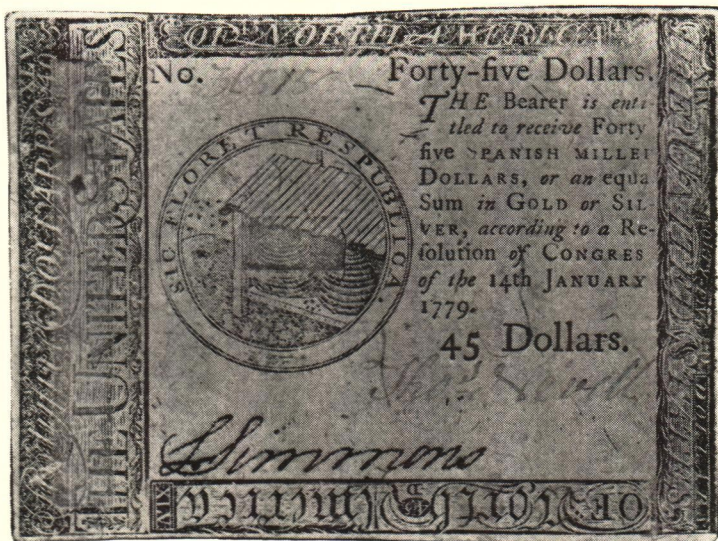

Nearly all bank notes throughout the world still are being engraved to prevent counterfeiting. Some countries have begun producing some of their smaller value bills by the lithograph process due to the fact that engraving would cost more than the face value of the bills.

In addition to the new display of Latin American currencies, a new frame of Yugoslav currency has been added in response to the many requests from visitors about Croatian and Yugoslav currency. — Boys Town Times, Nov. 11, 1961

Happy New Year

As we cross the invisible line between 1961 and 1962, may we pause for a moment to determine whether or not we have left any footprints on the shifting sands of the Old Year. Then look ahead and make sure your good resolutions for 1962 don't suffer the same fate as those of the Old Year.

To every American Numismatic Association member and family may we extend New Year's Greetings, Good Health and Friendship on behalf of the A.N.A. officials, elected and appointed. Much was accomplished by the Association during the Old Year but more remains to be done in the New. With harmony and coöperation, let us continue our giant strides forward.

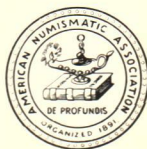

May God give us strength, individually and as a Nation, to make the right decisions and do all things honorable that will bring Peace and Prosperity to our own United States of America and to a World torn with selfishness and dissension.
